MOST THINGS CHANGE...

The Nintendo Entertainment System has evolved, but the huge library of over 700 NES games that exists plays exactly the same way! The design of the new NES is totally cool, especially the new Controller. It's soooooo much more comfortable than the old rectangular Controller. And speaking of comfort, at $49.95*, the new NES is extremely comfortable to afford!

Back in Volume 48, we asked what kinds of products (licensed merchandise) you'd like to see with Nintendo characters and other video game characters on them. Apparently, this was a very popular topic because we're still getting letters that are answering the question!

PORTRAIT OF A NINTENDO FAN

Ambrose Bregg (Dorr, MI)

I suggest having a video game channel. It would have cartoons and movies on it. It would also have game tips and strategies on the station.

Chris Kmiecik
Macomb, MI

I'd like to see postage stamps with pictures of all the SF II characters.

Michael Cooper Chicago, IL

How about making remote control Super Mario Kart racers with all of the characters in the game? The karts would have a rechargeable 9-volt battery pack and would be very detailed.

Mike "Musclehead" Blazek Ennis, TX

I think a perfect idea would be to have Mario Bros. gum. There would be Mario Cinnamon, Luigi Fruit, Yoshi Mint, Princess Bubble Gum and Bowser Sour. It would be sugar-free and have long-lasting flavor!

William Dorsch
Fresno, CA

I would like to see Ganon from "A Link to the Past" on tax forms.

Eric George Dongola, IL

Great idea! We'll call the IRS right away!

Yoshi's Egg donuts would be a great idea. They'd be covered with powdered sugar and green spots (food coloring, not mold) with green pudding inside.

Davey Donorak Wichita, KS

dedication to a product is truly a gross merchandise in this case. Scope out the home made arcade game!

Check out our article on the making of Super Empire Strikes Back in this issue. It's really the best time we've covered the making of a game. We liked doing it. The question is, did you like reading about it? Want more?

SAN JOSE SHARKS

SLAP SHOOT! CONTEST WINNER

Jason Price was psyched and San Jose-bound last April as the winner of the Player's Poll Contest from our January '93 Super Issue. Jason and his mom, Cindy, flew all the way from Orchard Lake, Michigan to see the mighty Sharks take on the Los Angeles Kings. It was a fantastic game. It went into an overtime period and came down to the wire, but the Kings, who were apparently slighter that evening, finally emerged victorious. Staying at the prestigious and historic Fairmont Hotel, visiting the good people at Electronic Arts, riding the trolleys on the streets of San Francisco, dining at the Hard Rock Cafe, and taking the Alcatraz Island tour were other highlights of the trip. Jason also got to meet some of the Sharks players and the Sharks owner!

It's not every day that you get to drive a Zamboni.

Jason got to take a few slapshots on the Sharks' home ice. Doug Wilson, NHL veteran and Sharks team captain, joined Jason on the ice before the game for a little wrap-up and a photo session.

EDITOR'S CORNER

Do you want to play a difficult game? If the answer is "Yes" then you'll have to check out The Lost Levels. It's one of the four games included in Super Mario All-Stars and it's hard. Also on the new Super NES Game Pak are enhanced versions of the original Super Mario Bros., SMB 2 and SMB 3. The Lost Levels was originally released only in Japan and was titled Super Mario Bros. 2, while the SMB 2 that you all know is called Super Mario Bros. USA in Japan. Weird, huh? Anyway, we've known about The Lost Levels for quite some time and have really wanted it to be released in the U.S. so you all could see it. So, when you do see it and play it, be sure to take the World 9 Challenge. Getting to World 9 isn't easy, but when you reach it, take a picture of your TV screen and send it in to us! See the review in this issue for more details about the contest.

THE NEXT FIGHT

Capcom may not have realized how strong the Mad Gear Gang was when it released the original Final Fight. The fight isn't final. In fact, it's far from being over! Final Fight 2 picks up where Final Fight left off, but steps the action up a few notches! Capcom is famous for great game play and well-animated characters. You'll get both here.

THE MAD GEAR RETURNS

The Mad Gear Gang has surfaced again! Mayor Mike Haggard has tried everything within his power to rid his city of the low-life scum, but it seems that they just keep getting more powerful. A lucrative recruiting program for new gang members is how they retain their strength—even when they've been beaten down by Haggard and his pals. With Guy training out of town and Cody off with Jessie, Haggard signs up two new Final Fighters, Carlos and Maki, for a worldwide Final Fight.

FINAL FIGHTERS

FINAL FIGHT 2

HAGGAR

The consummate bruiser, Mayor Mike Haggard takes pride in being able to pummel his opponents with sheer power. Power is plentiful for Mike, but unfortunately, quickness is not.

MAKI

Maki is small and is not extremely powerful, but she makes up for it with her blazing speed and ability to score many hits before her opponents realize they've been attacked.

CARLOS

The most well-rounded fighter of the bunch, Carlos is probably the best fighter for an inexperienced player to start off with. He's got the moves, the power and the speed.

MAD GEAR GEEKS ENEMY KEY

A: ATLAS

This tough guy defends himself very well. If you try to punch him, he'll put up his forearm to block. Give him a jumping kick.

B: JONY

Jony is practically the same as Atlas. This scrawny powerhouse doesn't block quite as well or quite as often, though.

C: ELICK

Elick's favorite move is a ball charge with both electrodes fired up! This foe can't move fast, but you do need to watch his electrodes.

D: LEON

Leon and Robert usually show up in the same areas. It appears that they could be related. They certainly attack in similar fashions.

E: ROBERT

Robert can enter the playfield by jumping on your head. Since he can already be in the air when you first see him, it's difficult to avoid.

F: MIC

Mic rhymes with "kick" and that's what he likes to do. He's got an extremely powerful opponent, yet nonetheless, can't be ignored.

G: SCHOT

This punker walks around hunched over with an evil glint in his eye. His favorite trick is to approach and attack from behind.

H: BULL

Bull likes to kick his opponents if you move in fast, you should be able to grab and throw him, but don't hesitate with your attack.

I: MARK

Mark is a Mad Gear with a mass. He wants to climb the nearest ladder, but he's just not smart enough to know where to start.

J: JACK

Green hair seems fitting for this throwback to the underground punk scene. He's not much of a threat. Go for another Mad Gear first.

K: ELIJAH

Check those eyes! Right really needs to get some sleep. This purple suited dwarf likes to kick, but he's not too much trouble.

L: ELIOT

Eliot is a little stronger than your average Mad Gear, but he can be thrown fairly easily. Move in close to grab him and then let him fly!

M: ELIAS

Like his counterpart, Eliot, this can be thrown easily. If other Mad Gears are around, toss him as they're close toward him.

N: JOE

Joe was an orphan before the Mad Gear land him in. His favorite move is to throw fire bombs around and then leave quickly.

O: ANDORE

You'll remember Andore from the first Final Fight. His brain is fairly nice, but you'll need to watch out for him when he charges.

MORE POWER!

Every Item that you uncover by knocking over cans or what have you, is beneficial to get. Some Items will replenish your chosen fighters' Health Meter. Just how much energy is replenished is dependent upon the particular Item. Some Items are only worth points.

HONG KONG

The first stop for the Final Fighters is the streets and back alleys of Hong Kong. The Mad Gear will be leading you all over the globe on this adventure. Right from the start, a good mix of Mad Gears will be thrown your way. Refer to our Enemy Key to see who's coming up.

ENEMY KEY

CAN SMASHING

As you make your way down the streets, smash any can that you see. Most will contain a Power-Up item or an item that will score you extra points. Smashing these cans is the best way to earn extra lives.

AGAINST THE WALL

There is a wall at the end of level 1-1 that you can use to your advantage. When you reach it, a couple of strong ic-gang bangers will approach you from behind. Jump over them or throw them into the wall. Now you can enjoy slamming them up against the rock solid surface.

While most of the game is a straight-on, top-down adventure, certain sections of the stages scroll vertically more or less. Look for handy weapons like sub-machine guns and be sure to watch out for a truckload of Mad Gears who will happen upon you.

CHARGED UP!

Dick needs to reduce his daily fat intake and get himself on an exercise program. We're not sure of his battery's vintage, but if he happens to touch you with his electrodes, you'll be shocked to find out the answer!

With his long moustache and tattoos, Won Won is one mean-looking dude. Parasols don't wear tattoos. Won Won doesn't like to fight alone. Throughout your battle with him, he'll call upon lesser Mad Gear Gang members to help him out. Concentrate on Won Won, but don't let the others gang up on you or get behind you for too long. Won Won's favorite attack is to jump high into the air and try to land on top of you. OUCH!

France is the next stop on what will soon become a world tour—whether you like it or not! With the exception of Freddie at the end, Jumping and landing on your head is a favorite attack of his, but he also likes to slide and shove into you.

CAR SMASHER

It seems such a shame to smash on a perfectly good vehicle like this, but this rig is used by the Mad Gear Gang for other-than-charitable purposes. Use the nightstick and two-by-four to help you demolish it. Score many points if you beat it to the ground.

Why Holland? We may never know. A dilapidated old building is where Bratken, your immediate target, is hiding out. If he isn't holding Reno and

PHILIPPE

Even though he looks and acts like a clown, he's not clownin' around! Philippe may be the weakest of the boss choir, but with that in mind, you're better off to go into the battle with both hats blowing! Philippe has a wicked alibi attack that can catch you off guard. Be prepared to jump.

When you hit him and he falls to the floor, back away. He's likely to get up with an unstoppable spin kick.

SUPER MARIO ALL

It's common knowledge that all of the Super Mario Bros. games are fun to play and replay over and over, but now you can play them on your Super NES! Nintendo's Super Mario

SUPER MARIO BROS.

The game that started the NES craze is back! But it evolved! It looks and sounds sooooo much better now that it features Super NES graphics and sound. Take a refresher course: Gaming 101.

Everything's in the same place and the game plays exactly the same, but now it looks and sounds totally cool!

You'll immediately notice that the play control is different too, on my SNES 3. This makes playing the original SMB even more of a challenge.

THE LOST LEVELS

OK, you've been warned! This is your last chance to back out. Once you enter The Lost Levels, you won't want to quit until you've rescued the Princess. This game is wazayy harder than the original SMB!

This game was previously only released in Japan as Super Mario Bros. 2. It's radically different and harder than the US version of SMB 2.

Originally thought to be overly difficult, we're very pleased that the game has finally been released. Tower Players take notice!

SUPER NES FUN... SUPER MARIO

Don't look for any differences in the way that these games play compared to their NES counterparts. They are exactly the same. The big changes are the updated graphics and sound. Super Mario Bros. 3 now features a Battle Mode where Mario and Luigi compete for Coins in an arena exactly like that of the original Mario Bros. game. It's like you're getting five games on a single Game Pak! As mentioned before, the show-stealer is The Lost Levels. It's known as SMB 2 in Japan, but is finally here in North America to challenge the very best players.

STARS

TM

All-Stars features souped-up versions of the original. Super Mario Bros. plus SMB 2, SMB 3, and a new entry to the family: The Lost Levels.

SUPER MARIO BROS. 2

Known in Japan as Super Mario USA, SMB 2 is the most "different" Mario Bros. game. The Princess, Toad and Luigi are along to help Mario defeat the evil Wart. Bowser is conspicuously missing in Sub-Con.

The whole world is different in Super Mario Bros. 2. Sub-Con is missing here, the Mushroom Kingdom. Things just aren't the same here.

The improved graphics of the SNES 2 Super NES translation really add a special touch to the game. Of course, the same goes for the other!

SUPER MARIO BROS. 3

Arguably the best game NES game ever and definitely the best seller, SMB 3 quickly became a classic. You'll notice the least amount of change in the Super NES translation because it was already great!

Bowser's introduction for Koopa King in SMB 3 is great. Just when it seems it's over, you see more Bowser! As if they weren't better already.

The working backgrounds really are in the depth of this Super NES translation. It's almost in the same level as Super Mario World.

BROS. STYLE!

This is what "Game Pak" look like for the Japanese Disk System. Log reference, huh?

SUPER MARIO BROS.

THE LOST LEVELS

The Lost Levels offers a total of 13 different Worlds for Mario and Luigi to travel through and explore. As in Super Mario Bros. 2, Mario and Luigi have different physical abilities. Other than the color of their overalls, the Bros. look the same and their abilities aren't dramatically different, but Luigi can jump higher, so we recommend playing with Luigi when you first begin to play the game. Some of the jumps are very difficult to make and having just a little extra jumping power helps tremendously! Another great feature that The Lost Levels and each of the other games feature on this Super NES Game Pak is the ability to save your game at any time and return to it at any time! You can save up to four different games on any one of the titles.

EXPECT THE UNEXPECTED

There are multitudes of hidden Items in The Lost Levels as well as many Bonus areas and Warp Zones. Poison Mushrooms are also something new that The Lost Levels offers. Mario will lose a life if he accidentally touches one. Likewise, Super Mario and Fery Mario will lose their powers by touching a Poison Mushroom.

WORLD 9

Upon completion of World 8, if you haven't taken any Warp Zones along the way, you'll go straight to World 9. Consider it a Bonus World!

WORLD A-D

If you Wreap! Worlds A through D come after you rescue the Princess in World 6. The Princess is waiting again at the end of World 3-4.

WARP-A-RAMA!

If used correctly, the Warp Zones can quickly take you to the end of the Lost Levels. Using the Warps is OK if you want to see how fast you can rescue the Princess (as if you didn't know what the goal was), but for a true challenge, don't use any of the Warp Zones. Go ahead, we dare you not to.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE 1-UP

You may think that just because this game features unlimited Continues, you can finish the game without a problem. There's one hitch. Using no Warps, you'll get to World 9. Once you've arrived there, the unlimited Continues rule goes out the window. Moral: Get as many 1-Ups as you can!

Koopa shells are your ticket to 1-Ups! Look for almost multiple 1-Up areas.

TO 1-UP GOAL

WORLD 1-1 GOAL

There is a 1-Up hidden in the third Block in the upper row of Blocks.

WARP TO W2

WARP TO W2

WARP TO W4

YOU'RE OFF TO WORLD 4

If you want to get to the end of the game quickly, take the Warp to World 4. It's not the easiest to get to, but it's worth the effort.

WORLD 1	WORLD 2	WORLD 3	WORLD 4
Get used to the original SMB play control in World 1. It takes time.	This World 2 matches the difficulty of World 8 in the original SMB game.	There are some pretty hairy jumps to tackle in the extremely World 3.	If you're pulling your hair out by World 4, it's OK. It's normal to do so.

WORLD 5-1 GOAL

WORLD 5-1 GOAL

WARP TO 8-1

WORLD 6-2 GOAL

TO 1-UP GOAL

NEGATIVE WARPS

Definitely different than the original SMB, The Lost Levels features Warp Zones that take you back instead of ahead to a higher World.

Getting to the Warp Zone in this area is tricky. You have to hit the last Block on the edge to get the Warp to appear.

WARP TO W7-1

GO AFTER THE PRINCESS!

World 8 in the original SMB is tough, but when comparing levels of difficulty, World 8 in The Lost Levels blows that away. Elevate your Super Mario skills to a new level!

WORLD 8-1 START

WORLD 8-1 GOAL

LEAP OF FAITH

Just sprint off the end of the pipe and over the two stacks of Blocks and leap the large gap. A Winged Koopa will be there for you to bounce on.

WARP BACK TO 8-1

You probably don't want to go back to World 5, so if you happen to end up in the Warp Zone, just End your game. Then Continue.

WORLD 8-2 START

GOAL IN THE CLOUDS

World 8-2 is different than any other World in the game because the Goal is not on the same plane as where you begin the World. Bounce off of a Winged Koopa to hit a Block that will reveal a Vine. Climb it.

WORLD 8-2 GOAL

WORLD 8-3 START

HAMMER BROTHERS!

The Hammer Bros. are an evil pair of goons. The trick to defeating them is not to be scared. Get close to them and wait for an opening.

WORLD 8-3 GOAL

The jump in the Goal here may be one of the hardest in the whole game! Don't hesitate for anything.

WORLD 8-START

FIREBALLS

Fireballs are unpredictable. Wait for one to start falling back into the pit before leaping.

A TOUGH JUMP

Get the hidden Mushroom to the left of the left pipe and then prepare to make the difficult jump down into the pipe on the right.

SPRINT OVER SHORT GAPS

One-Block wide gaps on the ground or in floors or ledges can be crossed without jumping over them! Get a running start and your momentum will carry you right across the gaps! This technique will be very useful in many areas throughout the game. Watch out for Fireballs!

IT'S A TRAP!
DON'T GO!

Don't take this pipe - it's a trap set by Bowser. He knows the layout you're coming. He directed this pipe back to the start.

BOWSER BATTLE

Battles with Bowser aren't really battles at all. You just avoid him. It's usually better to run under him when he jumps because he throws hammers at you.

Once again, if you haven't used any Warp Zones throughout the game, you will now be whisked away to World 9. Most regrettably, you won't have the option of Continuing if you happen to run out of lives while there. Either stock up on 1-Ups early on or be extremely careful! If you did use any Warp Zones, you'll be going so World A from World 8-4.

CONQUER ALL OF THE KINGDOMS!

A true Super Mario Bros. champion is a person who can switch between and excel at each of the SMB games because Super Mario Bros., SMB 2 and SMB 3 all play differently. The Lost Levels adds a higher degree of challenge to the series. It can be frustrating to play at times, but ultimately, the fun factor and the appeal of the enhanced graphics will prevail. For the first time, you can play all of the Super Mario Bros. games without having to change the Game Pak!

TAKE THE- THE LOST LEVELS

Are you a true Mario Maniac?

We're giving you a chance to show us what you're made of. And we'll award anyone who can reach World 9 of this poisonous pak with a badge of honor. Here's the catch—you can only reach World 9 of the Lost Levels if you play every single torturous level. Absolutely no warping! (If you try to take a shortcut, you'll skip from World 8 to bonus World A.)

Send us a photo of your accomplishment, and we'll send you this great iron-on patch. Just pause the game, and take a picture of the screen with World 9 clearly displayed in the corner. Get stompin'! The deadline is October 31, 1993.

TIPS TO HELP YOU REACH WORLD 9

Only persistent Lost Levels players will reach World 9. Telling you how to get there is simple: don't warp. However, accomplishing the task is another story.

HOW TO GET OVER 100 1-UPS!

In the very first stage of the game, World 1-1, you can get all the 1-Ups that you're likely to need for the entire game. It's not easy to do, but with some practice and a little luck, you'll be set for your lengthy journey through the Lost Levels and on to World 9 and beyond! Study the photos to see just how this tricky move is executed.

Release the Mushroom that's hiding in the second Block and then bounce it up and over the first Block without getting rid of the Koopa.

Trampoline! It's very important not to scroll the screen forward past the first row of Blocks. Next, go back and break out the first Block.

Break the third Block in the horizontal row and leave the Koopa quickly pacing back and forth on the fourth Block. Jump through the gap where you broke out the first Block and stand on the second Block. Take a small jump over onto the Koopa. Mario should bounce up and down on the shell and will eventually begin racking up 1-Ups. DO NOT get over 100. It will end your game!

WORLD 9 CHALLENGE

Contest Rules

Prize will be awarded to all valid entries received postmarked by October 31, 1993. Entries must include a photograph of a television screen with Level 9 clearly displayed from the video game Super Mario All-Stars. The Lost Levels, along with the entrant's full name and mailing address. All judging decisions made by the Nintendo Power Staff are final.

KOOPA KRASHER

When herds of Koopa Troopas are found, you can often nab a precious 1-Up by knocking all of them over in one fell swoop.

Mario kicks the red shell causing it to move down to the lower level where the Koopas are wandering aimlessly. Follow the red shell as long as you can to knock over many Koopas.

HELP FROM THE FLAG POLE

If your Coin total is 11 or a multiple of 11 (22, 33, 44, etc.) you can earn a 1-Up if you touch the flag pole when the last digit on the timer matches the multiple. Check out the photos for an example.

FIND THE HIDDEN 1-UPS

Many areas in the game hide 1-Ups. It's a matter of jumping around and knocking out Blocks to find them.

Invisible Blocks are difficult places to find 1-Ups because you don't know where they are!

It's a good idea to break out as many Blocks as you can to see each Bonus Box that you enter.

The 7th Saga

The latest RPG for the Super NES from Enix sends adventurers on a quest to find runes hidden throughout the land of Ticondera. It's an epic search that Enix estimates will take players more than 65 hours to complete. Players can choose to be one of seven king's apprentices—each with a unique personality and different set of capabilities—and though they begin the adventure solo, they can invite the other apprentices to join them as they meet up in various locations. Up to three games can be saved on the battery-backed, 12-meg Game Pak.

THE SAGA OF THE SEVEN RUNES

According to Ticonderan legend, an ancient tome was found in the darkness of a mountain cave some three thousand years ago. The ancient words that filled the pages were largely indecipherable to those who chanced upon the book, but what they could understand, only a small portion of the introduction and part of the conclusion, alluded to events that had played themselves out many generations earlier. Now, the king's seven apprentices, descendants of the warriors who vied for power in those ancient days, seek the seven fabled Runes and the power they grant the one who holds them. Before their departures, the king gives each apprentice a special Crystal. The Crystals allow the apprentices to see approaching enemies and nearby towns, caves or castles. They all set out at the same time, but separately. At some point they might decide to team up with one or more of their fellow apprentices, but at the outset, it's every apprentice for him- or herself. No two apprentices—or players—will search in quite the same way. Many factors, such as the order in which players visit towns and the amount of time it takes them get to there, determine the outcome of events, so no two players are likely to experience 7th Saga in quite the same way.

In the beginning, the seven apprentices stand before King Lemula to receive his solemn instructions.

When they leave the safe confines of King Lemula's Palace, they will be confronted by formidable opponents who will test their skills.

THE SEVEN SEEKERS

THE 7TH SAGA

Each of the seven apprentices has his or her own special qualities and abilities. Some rely more on brains than brawn, and some possess awesome magic powers. Although you can choose only one as your main character, later you can pair up with apprentices who have abilities that complement your own. If you meet up with others along the way they may refuse when you ask them to join you. Try asking again after you've gained more experience to see if they'll change their minds.

As we highlight the characters, their stats will be displayed on the screen. We'll have to weigh their strengths and weaknesses before you decide to join.

Kamil Dowonna

A human with well-balanced skills, Kamil Dowonna is a good choice for the beginning player. His power healing spells, use one most weapons and has good speed in battle, his personality is neutral and he has a strong sense of justice. A good partner for Kamil is Valsu Saizer, who has strong vision and is determined to use the Flames to eradicate evil.

Esuna Busy

Although she's the only woman character in the game, Esuna holds her own against heavyweights such as Wilme and Lux. Her powerful ability to cast magic spells is legendary, and she picks up new skills quickly. Her magic power is the highest of anyone's, but her attack and defense powers are relatively low. Pair her with a powerhouse to make a strong team.

Valsu Saizer

Valsu, a human monk, has strong beliefs. His goal is to use the power of the Flames to rid Tardoria of all evil. Although he's not particularly strong in battle, he has excellent magic skills and can cast even the most sophisticated healing spells. Good by nature, he will refuse to join anyone containing evil characters. He will readily align himself with other good-natured apprentices.

Olvan Jaess

Olvan is the oldest of the apprentices but he's still very competitive. He has some abilities that none of the others have. For example, he is the only apprentice who can enter the "Dress of Esuna," which is said to be filled with precious treasures. Although he's relatively weak against the magic attack, he's strong and quick in hand-to-hand combat. Olvan makes a good supporting teammate.

Lux Tizer

Lux, a massive hunk of metal, is one of the laziest characters Tardora has. Though they've lived for thousands of years, Tizers have no memory. One of Lux's goals is to find the Flames to discover who made them and for what purpose. Lux's options aren't little—he comes equipped with all of the weapons he can use. He has strong offensive and defensive power but cannot heal himself when injured.

Lejes Rimul

Bred in nature, Lejes Rimul is prone to hunger and uncooperative. He mounts a very strong attack and uses magic offensively with great skill, but he is unskilled at healing himself, which is a problem because he's often weakened to death. They say that his goal is to gain control of the Flames then challenge King Lamele for the most powerful position in Tardora.

Wilme Pelin

The toughest fighter of all, Wilme is an elf who is nervous about his apprentices. He can't equip weapons and armor, but then, he doesn't need them. He comes up in experience levels quickly. It would make sense to pair him with Kamil or Olvan, who both require lots of money for weapons. He has strong fire spells and is good at reading magic attacks.

As you select your character, keep in mind that you might find yourself fighting the ones you don't choose. Can you beat them with the few characters you do choose?

THE WORLD OF TICONDERA

WORLD TOUR

The overworld map shows the locations of the many villages, caves and castles that you'll visit on your quest to recover the seven Runes. As you can see, the quest takes you over rugged mountains and to outlying islands. You'll find several modes of transportation useful. At one point, you'll even board an odd submarine that many mistake for a dinosaur. Labeled with each map label are a couple of points that will help you accomplish the major goal for that area. Bon voyage, travelers—we hope that your passport is up-to-date.

1 LEMELE'S CASTLE

As the quest begins, King Lemele calls his seven apprentices including you, to a meeting in his castle. From here, the group will spread to the four corners of Ticondera seeking the seven Runes.

2 LEMELE

Buy Potion 1 at the Shop in Lemele before you set out. Battle the weak enemies nearby and learn when to save your gems as you build experience. Drink water to refill your Hit Power by five points.

3 RABLESK

The people in Rablesk ask you to open the Gate of the Earth, which is in the south. When you talk to various people you find that the gate key is held by a monster called Romus. Talk to Gark, a man in the tavern, to get the promise of a Map when you obtain the key and open the gate.

4 ARAN CASTLE

Aran Castle is home to Romus, the Ghost Dog. He holds the key to the Gate of the Earth. Before you enter the castle to challenge Romus, you should have an Experience Level of at least five. As you pick your way through the castle to meet him, watch for Treasure Chests. Some of the chests hold valuable weapons and items that would be expensive to buy at the shop in town. You'll find Romus in a room in the southwest corner of the third floor. When you come face-to-face use magic to gain the advantage. Use your magic to zap his Hit Power and use Thunder to attack.

8 CAVE OF MELENAM

The cave of the lost civilization is dark and dank. Search for Treasure Chests and watch your Crystal display. When you see a red, flashing light, you're near the Wind Rune. Get the Rune and head for the east in the southwest. The exit path is blocked by a big stone but Drake can move it. When the path is clear, he thanks you and asks you to visit him the next time you're near Bruch, where he lives.

9 MELENAM

In Melnam you find several Tezcu weapons made by top old technology. They are in various states of disrepair. Luc, one of the apprentices you might have asked back in Bore, is also a Tezcu, but he's in good shape. Even though you've heard plenty about the treasure of Melnam, the Treasure Chests here don't hold anything special.

10 CAVE TO EYGUS

You'll meet Pazu again here, but this time he's back from the Dark World and becomes Red Pazu. He's stronger than Pazu, so if you want to return to a town and save your game, see the Wind Rune. After you beat him, search the area to find Magic Water.

11 EYGUS

The people of Eygus decided long ago to isolate themselves from the problems they saw growing in other areas where the inhabitants took games and property for granted. One man will show you to the entrance to a tunnel that leads to the continent.

12 CAVE TO PELL

To find this place, go to the back area of the forest in Eygus to enter the Cave to Pell. It's a narrow, twisting tunnel that is packed with monsters. You'll barely be able to take a step without running into one. After you find the exit, head south.

13 PELL

Pell is called the water town. You'll meet an unemployed singing digger hearing out at the local tavern. He'll come back to offer you a job after working the next town. Stock up on items before you come on—there are no shops in the next one you come to. The bartender really is hearing that a title in the south had something called a Water Rune.

14 GUNTZ

Gunz needs water. If you keep pressing the town sign, he'll eventually promise to give you the Water Rune if you can bring water back to Gunz. Bring the digger from Pell here to dig a well.

5 GATE OF THE EARTH

With the key that you earned by defeating Hecate, unlock the Gate of the Earth, which leads to the tunnel between Borek and Bore. In the tunnel you'll meet up with Pazu. He's the man you were worried about in Fabrick. Although he's not adept at using magic, he carries a big whip. Raise your Experience Level to at least 10 before you enter the Cave of the Earth.

6 BONRO

Find Gora and get the Map he promised. He shows around, so you'll have to talk to lots of people to get his favor. You'll also get tips about going to Zells to learn more about a mysterious treasure.

7 ZELLS

Some other apprentices are staying here, so they were in Bore. If you don't trust anyone's help there, this is a good place to try. Here you'll meet up with a well-known black-robed wizard. He claims to know where the entrance to the lost civilization of Melnam is. Sign here up!

15 PATROF

An evil man has gained control of Patrof and rules from the castle, which is locked. Find a hidden passage to the castle under one of the Tomatoes.

16 PATROF CASTLE

The castle appears to be empty, but it's a one-way force for evildoers. It's one of your fellow apprentices gone bad who at first tries to convince you to join him. When you refuse, the fight is on. If you lose, he'll take the Wind and Water Powers and you'll end up back in the land in Patrof. Buy 3 Power and return through the front gates to fight again.

17 BONE

Get the Reverse Guard from the last bell and don't talk to any of the other apprentices here—they'll only try to steal your hard-earned Bones.

18 CAVE OF MILTO

Look for an unusual section of wall in this cave. Use the Reverse Guard to open a secret passage, and you'll meet an eccentric scientist who has created a substance. He'll make you silent and drop you off at the port town of Dwanice.

19 GRIME TOWER

Only Dwan can see the entrance to this tower, and he must use a Gold Key acquired in Bone. The tower has 14 floors and lots of Treasures. Climb. At the top is a Warp Tile that leads to the North Tower.

20 DOWAINE

In Dwanice, you'll hear about the dispute taking place between the neighboring towns of Belaine and Telaine. A child in town will tell you some valuable bones: 50 and 500 G for 100 G.

21 NORTH TOWER

Any of the apprentices can enter through this secret place and climb to the Warp Tile on the 15th floor. They can warp from there back to the Stone Castle, which only Dwan could enter from the door.

22 BELAINE

Belaine is an industrial city. There are four Weapon Shops, so visit each before making a purchase. If you have enough gold, buy the famous Marmosa Stone, which costs 500 G. It's a powerful weapon.

23 TELAINE

The people in Belaine seem quiet because Telaine, which provides the raw material necessary for producing weapons and armor, stopped the place of an. In Telaine, you'll learn the other side of the story. It seems that their mine is played out, and unless someone finds a new source of ore, they'll have nothing to sell. The people are very bitter about Belaine's selfish attitude, and unless someone sees sense, it looks like war will break out.

24 TELAINE CASTLE

A man in the woods will not see about Luce, an ancient civilization that respected the Sky Rune. He tells you that you'll find the ruins of the civilization on the island of Beore, in the southwest.

25 CAVE OF BEORE

The Cave of Beore leads to the island. There are Treasures. Climb to the cave, but it's best to hurry as the island and find the Sky Rune before someone else takes it. Collect Treasures on the way back.

26 LUZE

From the cave exit, travel south to find the ruins of Luce. As you walk through the mine, you'll see dark spots on the ground. If you search, you'll find that they are pieces of the Crystal of Peace. Pick them all up. You can sell them later for 100 G. You must defeat the Dragon guarding the Sky Rune in order to talk to it. If you spend too much time wandering around in the cave, you'll find that someone has beaten you to the Rune.

27 PANG

Pang is known as the Kingdom of the Dwarf. If Dwan is part of your party, you'll hear about the secret Cave of Luce. Search the ground for Potions.

28 PADAL

Padal is a warmer trading ground. If you meet Gervase the Priest, he'll ask you to help cure the children of his hometown, Polasu, from a wicked Sorcerer.

29 POLASU

The people in Polasu beg you to help rescue their children, who are being held captive by a Sorcerer in the Castle of Beore, which is south of there.

30 PANDAM

The port city in Pandam is south of Beak. One ship runs from here to Bone, but it's often slow. The merchant ordered vessels. If you begin on either Dwan or Luce, you will arrive here by ship from Dwan.

31 TIFFANA

If you arrive in Tiffana before defeating the Sorcerer in the Castle of Beore, you'll find that the children—including the princess—were also missing from the kingdom. Defeat the Sorcerer to free them.

32 TIFFANA CASTLE

Go to the castle and talk to the king before you go to the Castle of Beore to fight the Sorcerer. When you return from the battle victorious, the grateful king will reward you with 500 G.

33 BARAN CASTLE

The main gate to the Castle of Baran is locked, but if you walk around to the right, you'll find a side entrance that is open.

Open the heavy Treasures Chests as you work your way to the Secret on the fourth floor. After you defeat her, get the Moon Rune from Patrof and the gold from the King of Telaine.

34 BILTHEM

In Bilthem, you'll find that the subjects are loyal to Dwan, who rules with an iron fist. The overkeeper won't even let you check in without Dwan's written order. You might as well go meet the man.

35 BILTHEM CASTLE

The Dungeon Guard is on his knobby because he lost the Jail Key. Push the small table on the left up to find it. Use it to talk to the prisoner, who'll give you the Stone. Use the Stone to fight Dwan.

36 BRUSH

In Brush, fast because it's nothing on an overboard—the airport—but you won't be able to land it until you have six Runes. Check? Talk to Pessa.

37 VALLINCA

When you have six of the Runes, return to Brush in Brush. He'll roll out his amazing airport and fly you to a distant island and Vallinca.

38 CAVE OF KAPEL

When you exit this cave, your party will be cursed by a magic trap. You won't be able to exit your magic until you find out how to remove the curse.

39 BUGASK

In a nearby town, Bugask, there is an evil sorcerer who knows a thing or two about curses. Tell them what your party to find out what to do next.

40 GUANTA

The mayor of Guanta is responsible for the magic trap that has cursed your party. Talk to him to learn how to remove the curse and move on.

41 CAVE OF BUNSEL

Once again, you'll meet up with Pessa, who is now a benevolent gateway. Defeat him and get the last of the Guanta's mayor asked you to bring back.

42 GORFUN

Finally, the job of the seventh Rune. The final boss is the bodiless evil, and he knows your strengths and weaknesses better than anyone else.

SAGA STRATEGIES

THE 7TH SAGA

Fans of RPGs will find plenty to like in The 7th Saga, and every time they start with a different character, they'll have a new play experience that might vary from the brief walk-through we've shown here. Regardless of which character you select, though, there are some basic strategies that remain the same. The general tips on this page apply to play with any of the seven characters.

USE THE CRYSTAL

Use the Crystal to your advantage: It pinpoints the location of towns, Treasure Chests and Runes. It also shows you which town the person you're seeking is in. If you're trying to build experience, seek out the enemies shown, but if you're just trying to travel avoid the enemy traps.

SEEK YOUR FORTUNE

The fortune-teller, Rarsa, is wise. If you don't know what to do next, return to Brush and pay the 100 G she asks. She will give you strategy suggestions and point you in the right direction. You must talk to her after you've collected six of the Runes. Otherwise, you won't be able to use the aircraft.

WAGE WAR WISELY

One of the first tips you get is also one of the most valuable. When you engage in battle, Defend with your first move and Attack with your second. It will lessen the damage you take and make your Attack more powerful. It's a good strategy to use against boss characters.

USE THE RUNES

As you collect the Runes, be sure to take advantage of their different powers. Many of them are useful in battle. For example, the Water Rune restores energy lost in battle; the Star Rune doubles your defensive power.

BANK ON JEWELS

Before you leave any town, go to the Item Shop and buy as many jewels as you can afford. Traveling with jewels is much safer than traveling with gold. If you're defeated, enemies take half of your gold, but they don't take jewels. You can sell them later for full value.

LOOKIN' FOR ADVENTURE

R&R used to mean rest and relaxation. No more! Rock 'N' Roll Racing from Entertaiment can be played only one way—flat out and with the volcano pumped! It's four heavily armored, heavily armed race cars driven by aliens who don't know the meaning of the word "mercy" It's a one or two-player extraterrestrial extravaganza. It's five planets with unique tracks, specially racing vehicles, Power-Ups on the track, tons of cash and a password to plunge you into the action. It is, in a word, awesome! So head out on the highway and rock!

NOT YOUR DAD'S OLDS

These five planets are for cyber punk gear heads. The four vehicles in each race can range from dune buggies to rocket sleds. Race the circuit or the VS. mode where every life form is on its own. There are also three levels of brutality and a bonus planet!

BEAT 'EM OR BLAST 'EM

Skilful driving is only part of the fun. You have to know where your firing button is, too. Pick up some explosive mopriornage before the race, then mop up the competition.

Blast the leader with your Pulse Rockets.

Use Jump Jets to leap over obstacles.

Mistakes effectively demolish the leaders.

MONDO BONDO

Before you take it to the track, you've got to put your machine in order. Customize your wheels with armor, super engines, shocks and weapons.

AROUND THE UNIVERSE

Each circuit takes place on a different planet. Each of the five planets has its own special track conditions.

You'll find a new best driver on each planet.

Great graphics help you through interplanetary space.

You don't have to fix up your old car. If you have the dough, buy a hot new machine in your favorite color.

NEW SETS OF WHEELS

As you move ahead to new planets, you'll find vehicles for sale that are better suited to the specialized tracks, but some of them cost a mint!

TURN OFFS

If the music, sound effects, or "The Mouth" bug you, just turn them off.

3 WAYS TO PLAY

You've got three ways to rock and roll. First, race the circuit as a one-player game. Second, play head-to-head in the two-player mode. Finally, take on the hard core drivers in the VS. Mode with full weapons in either the one-player or two-player mode.

TWO-PLAYER

The two-player mode pits you against one human opponent and two computer controlled drivers. You'll play on the circuit just as if you were in the one-player mode. That means you can get passwords and save your progress.

Pick up Money Power Ups whenever they appear on the track.

If you're smoking grab the Armor Power Up to fix your car!

VS. MODE

The VS. Mode is the ultra-cool option that lets you choose what planet to race on and gives you all the weapons right from the start. You also have three levels of difficulty: Rook, Veteran and Warrior! This is the ultimate test!

You're already fully covered up, so you don't need to buy upgrades.

Watch out for Bear Claw Mines that are dropped on the track.

Snake Sanders

- + 1 ACCELERATION
- + 1 TOP SPEED

Snake is driven to bring the Indianapolis Super Cup back to Earth where rock and roll racing has its sacred roots. To heck with the glory Snake just wants some respect. He moves out fast and keeps the speed up.

CYBERHAWK

- + 1 ACCELERATION
- + 1 JUMPING

Boomer left his body to science. Science wired him up and brought him back as a cyborg driving maniac. Watch his quickness and jumping.

IVANZYpher

- + 1 JUMPING

On his home world of Fleagull, Ivanzypher has been made a Planetary Hero for his exploits on the track. For great jumping and speed, IvanZ. has the right stuff.

JAKE BADLANDS

- + 1 ACCELERATION
- + 1 CORNERING

Jake was a ring leader on Xeno Prime before taking to the tracks. He learned that getting around the corners fast was essential.

On Planeros IV, Katarina is a princess, but she's disgusted when beings treat her with kid gloves. She's also disgusted by the boasts of males that Rock 'N Roll Racing is their domain. She has more skill than any of them.

TARQUIN

- + 1 SPEED
- + 1 CORNERING

From humble beginnings, Tarquin became a starship captain and then a Rock 'N Roll Racer. He has the inside track on skills.

THE WORLDS

There are five worlds of thunder where the Rock 'N Roll racers vie for the Indy Super Cup. If you play in the Warrior Division, you can reach Inferno, a sixth world. Each planet has a different set of tracks with new types of obstacles and new strategies.

CHEM VI

You'll need a gas mask to get around on this murky planet, which suffers from a thick smogosphere. The first eight Rock 'N Roll Racing events are held here, and from all accounts they are the easiest on the circuit.

VIPER MACKAY

Viper Mackay is the lord of the Chem VI circuit, but he's anything but invincible. Keep your cool and he'll suck exhaust for the entire race.

THE TRACK

The Chem VI track is smooth with good traction, easily the best racing surface on the circuit. In the later races, look for increasingly complex track shapes and more jumps.

A poorly-timed jump on the raised Chem VI track can leave you with no place to go but down. If you lose a car, don't worry. You'll get another car seconds later.

DIRT DEVIL

The Dirt Devil is one of two choices of vehicle you have at the outset. It's good in the corners and hills, but not as quick as the Mansuder.

You'll have one round of extra work at the lowest level of competition. Use it wisely.

Remember where you lay your waste so you'll avoid them on the next lap.

DRAKONIS

Drakonis may be the home of a reptilian race with a taste for human food—or humans for food—but it's also the site of one of the hottest R&R Racing circuits. Expect 10 tracks of heavy metal!

GRINDER X10

The Racing Institute scientists on Drakonis wanted the ultimate driver to challenge for the Indy Super Cup. So they wired up a steel-skinned fiend with transmission fluid in his veins.

ALIEN ALLEYS

Drakonian tracks look tougher than they are. The ridges won't affect your driving, but the green pools of toxic waste act like glue, so you should avoid them or jump over them. Try using the Air Blade on this hilly circuit.

Build up a stack of weapons to clear a path.

Keep to the center to avoid flying off the track.

These pits will virtually stop you in your tracks.

DRAK TRACKS

These ten tracks have all the twists and turns that you might expect on a world where R&R Racing is the chief industry aside from the production of Lizard Chow. Since it's easy to fly off the track on the hills, drivers should steer toward the middle.

Expect lots of jumps, and be careful to land on the track!

If you miss the track on a jump, you'll enter the Drakonian Sweep and explode in impact. Duh!

MARAUDER

The Marauder is inexpensive, but it's a classy car. If your Marauder is tricked out, keep it instead of upgrading to an Air Blade.

Drop some BF's Slip Sauce to slow your opponents.

The Marauder's Plasma Rifle packs some punch.

Launch Jump Jets give the Marauder a much needed lift.

HOT RODS, FEAR & FISH

After driving off a pier last week in Seattle, I had to think about getting a new car. Back at the office, I started test driving the pack of new racing titles that have been flooding the Sports Scene desk. The choice of Super NES racing games was overly as overwhelming as plunging into the bay! International F1 grand prix races, off road and motorcycle simulations, futuristic demolition derbys and even road races all flashed before my eyes. Super speed, super rods, super realism! No other video game system has racing like this. Even worse, I realized that no new car could compete with these hot vehicles. Maybe I'll get a boat instead.

THE GOOD FIGHT
BOXING LEGENDS OF THE RING

By Electro Brain

Salt Lake City, UT—Electro Brain worked with Ring Magazine and Sculptured Software to bring Super NES sports fans the finest boxing simulation to date. You don't even have to be a fight fan to appreciate this game. From excellent digitized graphics that put you as close to the action as you could want to a set of options that will keep players coming back, bout after bout, Legends does it all. The game features tournament, exhibition and career modes for one-player or two-players.

As far as depth goes, the only comparable fighting game is Electro Brain's Best of the Best for the Super NES, but that may all change now that a new standard has been set.

"Eight of the finest middleweights of the past century appear in Legends."

Eight of the finest middle weight fighters of the past century appear in Legends including Hagler, Hearns, Toney, Graziano, LaMotta, Duran, and the incomparable Sugar Rays, Robinson and Leonard. The Battle of the Legends option is a tournament in which the eight greats meet head on. In the Career Mode, you get to create your own fighter and work toward the championship. Exhibition bouts are great for quick play and learning about the different fighters. Impressively, the computer gives the fighters their trademark moves and strengths.

SO REAL IT HURTS!

From the sound of the bell as the bout begins at the Las Vegas Hilton to the screaming fans at ringside, Legends recreates the feel of professional boxing to an incredible degree of realism. Unlike the stiff punches seen in TKO

Boxing and the limited mobility of George Foreman's KO Boxing, Legends looks smooth and delivers a wide variety of punches and moves. Not only does the game look and sound great, it has excellent play control and useful information on the screen, including pictures of the fighters' faces that show how hurt and exhausted they are. Legends also scores points for having a password option and a training mode between bouts. It's a knock out!

THE CAREER PATH

The Career Mode begins when you create your own boxer. You name him, select his appearance, then give him the punching strengths that will keep him in the action. Once you've accomplished that, the long road up through the ranks begins.

Your first bout is against Kinikin, a fictional contender with great arm strength but a suspect jaw. Use your strengths and super punches to kyo this pretender or win on points. After winning the bout, you'll switch to a training session in which you can increase one of your basic traits such as Stamina, Strength or Chin.

The Career Mode continues for nine bouts as you work toward the title fight. If you win, you can use your fighter in the Battle of the Legends Mode and win the middleweight title. Besides using your best combinations, each boxer has a limited number of super punches that can be used in each fight. After winning a bout, you'll return to the Ring Magazine ratings screen to see your standing amongst the middleweight contenders. Your record will be updated and you'll be given a password. The passwords are very long, so you have to be careful writing them down. Before each bout, you'll see a review of your next opponent's skills. You can learn a lot from the strength meter and the written description of your opponent's fighting style and then turo it against him in the ring. For instance, if a fighter has low stamina, work on body punches to sap his energy. If he has a weak chin, continued pounding to the head with upper cuts will wear him down or even put him on the mat.

"If you win, you can use your fighter in the Battle of the Legends Mode and win the middleweight title."

The options in Legends include changing the perspective of your fighter from front to back, switching off the black out option, and selecting your skill level. Overall, the balance of great boxing action and excellent options makes Legends a true heavyweight.

THE FUTURE IS SUPER BASEBALL 2020

By Tradewest

Corsicana, TX—Ball players from the last century probably wouldn't believe the major leagues of today, what with designated hitters and million dollar player salaries, and the chances are pretty good that we won't recognize the game of baseball in the next century. Tradewest's vision of the future is Super Baseball 2020, the arcade hit now finding a home on the Super NES. This is baseball with a twist. The field has been altered and the teams are from all over the world, but the biggest change is in the players, some of whom are robots! But the bottom line is that SB 2020 would be an excellent baseball game even without the futuristic setting because the play is quick and fun.

FUTURE TEAMS

Super Baseball 2020 is definitely not your grandfather's baseball game, and the differences begin with the teams. Composed of humans and robots, there are 12 teams from around the world with such names as the American Dreams and Aussie Batters. Choose your team based on the strength stats, but don't worry if you're weak in certain areas. You can use prize money to strengthen your team as the tournament progresses. During the game itself, you can call time out and switch hitters or pitchers, or you can beef up a player who proves to be a weak link. Unlike most other baseball simulators, having the strategic ability to mold your team is one of the most interesting aspects of this game.

You can also play SB 2020 as a two-player game. Since hitting, pitching and fielding are very intuitive, anyone can play right off the bat. As a matter of fact, as far as true baseball feel is concerned, SB 2020 can match up to such solid entries as Super Batter Up, Cal Ripken Jr. Baseball and Roger Clemens MVP Baseball. The true baseball fanatic, however, may object to the altered foul zones and home run zones of the Cyber Egg Stadium where the Super Baseball league plays its games.

The graphics of 2020 are particularly good. Big characters, bright colors, smooth animation, and even the robots seem believable! When a particularly spectacular play is made, the game automatically shifts into a close-up, animation sequence. This happens with great fielding plays as well as home runs. Like most sports games, the best challenge will come not from the computer, but from human opponents. For human opponents to become skilled at a video game requires an easy-to-learn, intuitive interface. Super Baseball 2020 has that, plus it has some wildness you won't see anywhere else.

"Since hitting, pitching and fielding are very intuitive, anyone can play right off the bat."

POWER SCORES KONAMI CODE

By Konami

Buffalo Grove, IL—The design team at Park Place included the ultimate NFL challenge when they were creating Konami's NFL Football for the Super NES. A special password, given exclusively to Nintendo Power from Konami, handicaps the player by giving him control of the lowest rated team in the game—the Seattle Seahawks—in a match-up with the top-rated Konami Pro Team. If you take the Seahawks to victory in this special code match-up, you may be taking a trip to Hawaii as the winner of Konami's Score Big Or Stay Home Contest. In order to defeat the Konami Team, you'll have to use all your football savvy.

When intently testing out your lowly Seahawks, you may be tempted to give up, become a clown instead and join a traveling circus—at least in that role the laughs from the crowd will be intentional. If you do, kiss goodbye a chance at Konami's great Grand Prize trip to the Pro Bowl in Hawaii. Once you settle down, you'll find that the Seahawks aren't quite as hopeless as you thought. Their running game is pretty good in spite of the low grades and their defense and special teams are actually quite good, especially if you get a hang for second-guessing the Konami Team's play calling.

The Seahawks' best play is the 47 Sweep from the Shotgun formation when you run to the opposite side of the field from that shown in the play diagram. When you hit the line, push the Y Button to spin off tacklers and the X Button to high step past other encroaching defensive players. One of the best features of NFL Football is your ability to use spurring, high stepping and stiff arming techniques to gain added yardage for your running game. Since your players don't get tired from down to downs as in some games where you must constantly substitute players, you can run your backs constantly. The best ratio between running and passing plays for the Seahawks is four to one—four running downs to one pass. When passing, choose the Shotgun formation and the Deep Out route. You'll have more time to find the open receiver before being introduced to Mr. Turf.

Another element in your quest for free pineapple is that your opponent is a computer and you're not. People have a way of surprising computer opponents, no matter how good the artificial intelligence may be. This isn't just a matter of clever play calling, but also of timing your cuts and stiff arms and looking for running room. On defense, quick reaction is essential. Surprise the offense with blitzes and goal line formations even when you're in midfield. Shift your active player around to a linebacking position so you can make the tackle on both running and passing plays, keeping to the middle to snag interceptions. If you try all these tactics, chances are that you and the Seahawks might be headed to paradise come next February!

RULES OF THE GAME

To enter Konami's Score Big Or Stay Home contest you must use the following Pro Team "Match Up" level password: PRKPL PRKPL PRKPL PRKPL PRKPL PRKPL. This password automatically puts you in a special Pro Team "Match Up" game as the Seattle Seahawks with your opponent being the awesome Konami Pro Team. All the players on the Konami Team have top skill and strength settings, making them the best team in the game. The Seahawks have the lowest rating as a team. Since you control the Seahawks, you'll face the greatest challenge possible by having to defeat the Konami Team in order to qualify for the Score Big contest.

Here's how you enter. After winning the game, the final score screen will appear with the Seahawk helmet graphic on the left and the Konami Team helmet on the right. Take a photograph of your winning score and include it with the Entry Form that comes with the game. Make sure you read the contest instructions included with the Game Pak. Then send the photo and entry form to the address listed below. Winners will be chosen from scores with the widest margin of victory.

The Score Big Or Stay Home contest is sponsored by Konami. Do not send entries to Nintendo Power or Nintendo of America! The Grand Prize is a trip for two to the 1994 Pro Bowl. Entry photos and Official Entry Forms must be received by November 30. Send Entries to:

OFF ROAD BAJA STYLE

By Tradewest

Corsicana, TX—When it comes to physical endurance, nothing can beat the boating that drivers take in the cross country races of Baja California. The desert terrain makes the moon look like a garden spot and the mechanics who work on the souped up 4x4s have about as much grasp of a smooth ride as a bucking bronco. Tradewest recreates this motorized bruise for the Super NES in its Super Off Road: The Baja game.

One or two players can challenge the world's toughest tracks. (The two-player game has alternating turns.) In fact, to call these rutted, belly scratches in the desert "race tracks" would take a true visionary. Along the course you'll pass spectators, ATV races and even wild animals. Be sure you do pass them, though, and don't run over them, as flattening one of your fans will cost you big bucks. The race course itself splits and branches, offering drivers a variety of choices. There are money Power-Ups and Nitro canisters to be found along the way. Sometimes a longer trail contains lots of goodies.

"Unlike the first Super Off Road game, driving is a real skill in The Baja, and far more realistic."

The 3-D terrain may be the most impressive aspect of this or any racing game. You truly climb hills and fly over the top of them. Although Ivan "Ironman" Stewart warns you to keep your wheels in the mud, the temptation to throw caution to the wind is hard to resist.

Graphically, Baja is one of the best looking race games around. The animation can be jerky in comparison to track racers like Nigel Mansell, but in the context of Baja races it seems to be perfectly justified. The behind-the-truck view gives drivers a wide perspective, the better to avoid deer and kids on ATVs. Unlike the first Super Off Road game, driving is a real skill in The Baja, and far more realistic. At the beginning of the game you can select the colors of your truck. Between races, you should stock up on Nitro canisters. A shot of Nitro boosts your truck over hills and past opponents.

Since the courses are basically twisting tracks lacking in true corners, your racing strategies are quite different than in most racing games. You have to take advantage of the multiple tracks that split off from the main track, and you have to choose the fastest (straightest) line between two points. The biggest help, you'll find, comes from using lots of Nitro. Between legs you can stock up on Nitro canisters.

DESERT TRACKS

The Baja contains three races: the Mexico 250, the Ensenada 500 and the Baja 1000. You can choose to test out any leg of these races before the actual event. The actual courses are pretty much the same. You'll race one leg at a time, so it's not quite as brutal as you might think. Passwords let you save your progress, adding to the playability of what otherwise would be a very tiring race.

It's easy to learn the basics, but no matter how good you get, there's always room to improve by shaving a few more seconds from your time. If you're into racing, but you're tired of flat F1 courses, this Super Off Road title should be just the ticket to drive.

GP-1: TWO-WHEELING

By Atlas

Irvine, CA—The fastest action on the track may not be with F1 cars, or even with automobiles at all. GP-1, a one- or two-player split screen motorcycle racing game provides the thrill of speed with a whole new set of racing strategies. Motorcycle track racing isn't the major sport in the U.S. that it is elsewhere in the world, but it is one of the most exciting of motor sports, combining speed, endurance, skill and danger. With shorter tracks and super quick machines, this is a much more fluid sport than car racing with lots of changes of position.

GP-1 has graphics to rival Nigel Mansell's World Championship Racing and handling that's as smooth as F1 Pole Position. The view from behind the bike is realistic, and the animation of leaning into the turns can almost pull you out of your chair. The only currently released motorcycle racing game, Kawasaki Caribbean Challenge, just can't compete when it comes to the realism of GP-1. The depth of this game is also impressive. There are 14 tracks around the world and you have a choice of six bikes. As your prize money grows, you'll be able to tune up every component of your machine for the challenge ahead.

The strategies of winning on the international motorcycle grand prix circuit revolve around the one essential skill of staying on your bike. During the heat of a race it's all too easy to try to squeeze through the pack. If you touch another bike, however, get ready to kiss the pavement. One spill can permanently dent your chances of staying in the race. Granted, that can be frustrating, but it's realistic, and that's what GP-1 is all about. If this game has a weakness it is that you can't see right at your bike in the pack. You really have to concentrate on your machine. Otherwise it's great fun for one- or two players.

F1 POLE POSITION

By Ubi Soft

Sausalito, CA—F1 Pole Position from Ubi Soft looks and drives like one of the best racing games in the crowded field of racing simulations to be released this fall. Aside from the standard options like a season of World Grand Prix racing on 16 international tracks and having a Test Run Mode for checking out the tracks, F1 Pole Position boasts a two-player split screen option and possibly the best steering control of any race.

The behind-the-car view is slightly more removed than the view in Nigel Mansell, but the feeling is still realistic. Even more realistic is the fact that you won't find turn signals appearing magically in the sky or along the track as in most games. That means you really have to memorize the tracks, just like professional drivers. Another unique option is the ability to choose both your car and team. To help in that selection, you can refer to a Power chart that graphically displays the strengths and weaknesses of your choice. Other useful options include control of weather and the number of laps to be raced.

LET'S PLAY THE FEUD!

Already famous for other game shows translated to video games like Wheel of Fortune and Jeopardy, Gametek now releases a Super NES version of Family Feud. The game is a bit lenient in the way it lets you answer questions. Hundreds of hours went into figuring out all of the ways someone could possibly answer each question and still have an appropriate answer. Not a small task! Gametek may have dropped the ball by not getting a Richard Dawson license for the game, but then again, who really wants to see him smooching everyone in video game fashion? Not us. While Family Feud is a one- or two-family game because an unlimited number of people can join in on the fun!

CHECK IN

Each family registers their name when the game begins. There's a password feature, too!

"GOOD IDEA!"

FAMILY FEUD

FEUD OPTIONS

When you begin a game, you can enter an Option Menu to change some of the game settings. For starters, after you've heard it a few times, the Main Theme tune can get to be pretty annoying. You can choose to shut it off on the Option Menu screen. The "Think Music" can also be annoying but luckily you can shut it off as well. You'll be thankful for these options.

TIMER

If having enough time to enter the answers is going to be an issue for any of the computers, you can opt to turn the Timer off on the Option Menu screen. This will allow you an infinite amount of time to answer each question.

BULLS-EYE ROUND

If you turn the Bulls Eye Round option off, the winning family will automatically be playing for $5,000 in the Fast Money Round. It's better to keep the Bulls Eye Round because you get more questions and can earn more money.

PASSWORD

You can amass a fortune if you make use of the password feature. The computer generates a six-letter password that correlates with your winnings when you win a game. When you start a new game, enter the password to begin the game with money in the bank. The password keeps track of your total winnings, pot your name. The password can be used in the one and two-player modes as well as in Practice Mode.

The Master family is beginning a new game, but they will have a password they received from a previous game. They'll be starting off with 12,000 large ones in the bank!

If you're good at this game and fun with your relatives, you can make a lot of money! The Master family's winnings went from 0 to $12,000 in one week period!

PRACTICE MODE

The Practice mode plays exactly like a one-player game, but the computer family isn't competing against you. Playing in the Practice Mode is an excellent way to build up huge quantities of cash. The password feature is still in effect in the Practice mode, so you can take your earnings into a one or two-player game.

In the Practice mode, you should be able to breeze through the match... because there's no one challenging you! Leave the Timer on to learn how to handle the pressure of tough questions or turn it off to take your time and get the best possible answers to the questions in the Bulls Eye Round, the match, and the Fast Money Round!

"GOOD ANSWER!"

"GOOD TRY!"

RING IN!

"GOOD TRY!"

"I SHOULD HAVE SAID THAT."

In a two-player game, the first person to ring in gets first shot at the question. This is important in the Bulls-eye Round because the first person to give an acceptable answer takes the amount of money the question is being played for.

AND THE SURVEY SAID...

If you ring in before the question fully appears, you may not be able to answer the question—a definite problem unless you're psychic. Enter your answer by selecting letters with the cursor and then pressing the B Button to register it. To make the cursor move faster, hold down the L or R Buttons while moving the cursor.

BULLS-EYE ROUND

No matter what happens in the Bulls-eye Round, the least amount of money a family will play for in the Speed Round is $5,000. Giving an answer that qualifies as correct for each of the five questions in the Bulls-eye Round will earn you from $1,000 to $5,000 in "bonus cash" if you score 200 points in the Speed Round.

DOUBLE

It takes a total of at least 300 points to win a match and go into the Fast Money Round. Rest assured that you'll never play a match that doesn't continue into the Triple Round. Taking this into account, it's possible to lose both the Single and Double Rounds and still win the game by winning the following two rounds.

"GOOD ANSWER!"

"WE'RE GONNA GO WITH..."

Common sense is the key to doing well in Family Feud. There really aren't any "trick" questions. If you have the time to read it, just take your time and try to come up with the most obvious answers.

SINGLE

There are usually seven or more answers to the survey question in the Single Round. If you happen to answer with a more popular response than your opponent, it may benefit you to pass control over to them. This is a good tactic if you believe that your opponent may not be able to match all of the given responses.

TRIPLE

The Triple Round is usually the easiest because there are always the fewest number of responses to match. The questions tend to be more "obvious" here, thus the limited number of responses. If you have control of the question, you should choose to play. It should be easier to uncover all of the responses and win the pot.

Playing instead of passing in the Triple Round is smart. There are fewer responses for you to match and if you happen to not match them all, it will put more pressure on your opponent to come up with an answer.

"GOOD IDEA!"

SPEED ROUND

You'll play for the big bucks in the Speed Round! If the Timer is on, you'll have to think quickly and enter your responses just as fast. Here are some sample questions and the number one answer. See how you do!

Extra Credits

Last month we printed a bunch of codes for Combatribes, one of which was a code for ten extra credits. This month we received even better codes, including a Thirty Credit Code! As soon as we tried this code, we quickly decided to pass it along. After all, 30 credits are better than ten.

To enter the code, hold the Select, L, and R Buttons on Controller II, then press Reset. When you return to the Title Screen, start a new game then release the buttons. Off you go with 30 credits!

On Controller II, hold Select, L, R then reset the game.

Turn on the game, then hold the Select, L and R Buttons on Controller II.

Press Reset on the Control Deck and wait for the Title Screen to appear.

Start a new game, then let go of the buttons to get 30 credits.

You can go a long way with the added help of this code!

Five Round Code

When you play a Vs. Mode game, you normally will fight a three-round tournament. With this code you can extend your fight to five rounds. To enter the code, hold the X and Y Buttons on Controller II, then reset your game. When you start a new Vs. Mode game, the tournament will now go five rounds.

On Controller II, hold X and Y, then reset the game.

Turn on the game, then hold the X and Y Buttons on Controller II.

Reset your game and wait for the Title Screen to appear.

Start a Vs. Mode game and select your favorite fighters.

The tournament will now last five rounds until you reset the game.

Extra Life Code

This code will double your lifetime when you play the normal game, letting you last longer in a fight. To enter the code, hold L, R and Up on Controller II, then reset your game. When you start a new game your lifetime will take twice as long to deplete. You can't use this code with any other codes.

On Controller II, hold L, R and Up and then reset the game.

Turn on the game, then hold L, R, and Up on Controller II.

Reset your game and release the buttons at the Title Screen.

When you start a new game your life will last longer in a fight.

This code really helps out against powerful enemies and bosses.

TRAVELERS IN TIME

ARTHUR

We are Arthur, the hero of this adventure, who travels back from the Future World to train with the Elder of Sharn. A skilled warrior, you will lead a party of brave travelers.

LEGEND III™

CURTIS

A talented magician, Curtis traveled back in time with Arthur. He will travel with you when you depart from Sharn.

SHARON

Sharon, the only granddaughter of the Elder, learned her strong fighting skills by studying with Arthur and the others in the Present.

GLORIA

A powerful healer, Gloria is a friend of the Water element. Your party will depend on her healing magic as it travels.

What is the motive behind Arthur's mission? Read The Legend, which begins on the facing page, to find out why its success is so crucial.

TRANSFORMATION

Characters can change two things: their forms and their controlling elements. Defeated enemies sometimes leave Meat or Parts behind. When characters either eat or install the leftovers, they can change their elements, gain new talents, or raise their attack and magic powers. Monsters can revert to Humans by installing two Parts, Robots return to Human form by eating two pieces of Meat.

MEAT

Eating one piece of Meat turns characters into Beasts; two pieces make them Monsters. They revert to Human by installing Parts.

PARTS

Characters become Cyborgs or Robots by eating Parts. To advance in levels, they must install Parts left by stronger Cyborgs or Robots.

CHANGES

Each character is governed by one of the four elements: Earth, Fire, Water, or Air. This table shows how characters are changed by the Meat or Parts they eat. If, for example, a character of Fire element eats Meat of Earth element, his or her element changes to Water.

BEYOND 3-D

WORLD ABOVE WATER

In Final Fantasy Legend III, Arthur's party will travel to the World Above Water, the World Below Water and Floatland, each in the Past, Present and Future. Their quest begins the Present day Dharm, above water.

BELOW WATER

Once you find the Dive spell and gain the ability to swim, you'll explore the World Below Water, where you'll find clues that lead you to a world beyond your own.

THE LEGEND

Agony, the world was rocked by shock waves that spilled from another dimension—the dimension of Pureland and the immortals who waged war for the fun of it, without regard for the effect their battles had on surrounding worlds. The people who inhabited the world of Final Fantasy Legend III were tormented by the ever-spreading violence emanating from Pureland. They begged their leader, Sol, the Ruler of the World, to put an end to the immortals' non-stop brawl.

FLOATLAND

Every now and then, you'll see an airship float by above you. The ships are, in fact, from a world that hovers overhead—a world you'll travel to when the time is right.

Creatures locked is the best way to avoid the strong water below.

Your journey also takes you to Pureland, where the warriors have banded together to destroy your world. It is in another dimension where time stands still.

THE WORLD PRESENT

DHARM

The search for the Talon's Units begins in Dharm, where the Elder gives you instructions and sends you off. Traveling with you are three fast friends.

THE TALON

Soi divided the internal mechanism of the time-traveling Talon into 13 Units and hid them in different times and dimensions. To travel freely between the areas of Final Fantasy Legend III, you must find the Units and install them in the Talon. When the ship is fully operational, use it to travel through time and space.

When you find the various Units, return to the Talon and install them. Each Unit adds a new ability.

THE SAGA: PART 2

In answer to the pleas of the people, Sol used his vast wisdom to build the Tolon, an incredible flying ship capable of traveling through both time and dimension. Sol used the ship to travel to Paradise and seal the Immortals in their own separate world.

It was an arduous and exhausting task, one that drained Sol of nearly every ounce of his energy, but he did not rest when he completed it. Instead, he dismantled the Tolon and willed its 13 Internal Units to various places in space and time so that no one would ever be able to use it for evil purposes. Only when the Units were dispersed did he fall into a deep sleep. As he slept, the world's inhabitants prospered, finally free of the Immortals' petty squabbles. They prospered, that is, until the Immortals figured out a way to pay Sol back for his meddling.

SE CAVE

A simple cave stood in the space that was later occupied by the South Tower. It held several treasures that a time-traveler would find to be useful.

THE SAGA: PART 3

The immortals had their vengeance. While Sol slept, they flooded the world with vile water that spawned monster upon monster. As the water rose, the people fled to higher ground for refuge, abandoning their homes and cities. The city of Dharm, which was considered safely sealed from the rising tide, was destined to be flooded unless someone found a way to stop the terrible deluge. The wise Elder of Dharm, one who remembered well the mischief of the immortals, held the theory that they were behind the endless flow. He suspected that they were searching for the legendary Toion and its vital internal Units. Who would find them first? Would it be the immortals . . . or would someone else step forward and volunteer to find the Units and wake Sol? The Elder knew that the fate of the world rested on the answer to that question, so he called on Arthur, the courageous youth he had raised and trained, to begin his quest.

Felix

THE CAT

© 1993 Hudson Soft
© 1993 F.T.C.P.

The cat with no visible whiskers and a big Magic Bag claws his way onto Game Boy! A while back, Hudson Soft sent the famed feline on an NES adventure. The Game Boy title is much like its NES counterpart, but it doesn't have as many stages. The difficulty level is rather low, so Felix is best enjoyed by younger or less-experienced players.

HE'S BACK

That blasted Professor is messing up Felix's life again! He seems to get an extreme amount of pleasure from kidnapping Felix's girlfriend,

Kitty. However, as in the Hudson Soft NES game of the same name, what the Professor's really after is Felix's unfathomably hip Magic Bag. One has to wonder, "What amazing goodies are contained within the Bag?" Is it catnip? No. Is it a titanium scratching post? No. A laser-equipped flea and tick collar? No, that's not it, either. It must be Power-Ups. Yes, that's it! And there are plenty of them, too. Felix should make use of the items contained within his Magic Bag to help him through each of the five stages. This Game Boy title is much like its NES counterpart, but it doesn't have as many stages. The difficulty level is rather low, so Felix is best enjoyed by younger or less experienced players.

HIS BAG O' TRICKS

By collecting numerous Felix Balloons and Hearts from Kitty, Felix can Power-Up to new levels of strength and will find himself scooting around in new vehicles.

MAGIC HAT

A shower of powerful stars will animate Felix's body when the Magic Hat is activated.

ROCKET CAR

When he is moving on land, the Rocket Car is the second Power-Up Felix will get.

DIVING MASK

For those special underwater tasks. Luckily, the Boxing Glove goes along with the Mask.

LIFE RAFT

It's no luxury cruise ship, but the Life Raft will keep Felix afloat. Paddle away, sailor!

UMBRELLA

The Boxing Glove also comes standard with the Umbrella when Felix floats around in the air.

BOXING GLOVE

This is Felix's standard weapon. It's a close-range-only enemy deterrent. Get more Power-Up!

AIRPLANE

The Flying Fishes that Felix feeds quite at home in the cozy cockpit of this popular flying aircraft.

TANK

The most powerful ground vehicle Felix can drive, the Tank lets round shells rain from its gun.

SUBMARINE

For rapid underwater travel, the Sub is just the ticket! The topdeck at times are potent!

DOLPHIN

The Dolphin has brought along a healthy supply of toxic beach balls to hurt at the beach.

BALLOON

The Flying Fishes that Felix launches from the Balloon have to be properly tossed and placed.

SPACESHIP

Blazing debris and alien tech is loads of fun in the Spaceship. A must for space travel!

FELIX'S FELINE FROLICKING

One of the most important features for any game to have is great play control. Felix certainly delivers in that particular category. All of the vehicles that he gets from collecting Power-Ups are easy to control.

Felix is geared up and ready to go. The tank and other felons will point you in the right direction.

As long as you keep Felix moving, he'll be entertained, but if you let him sit still, he'll take a nap.

When Felix is fully Powered-Up, he's pretty comfortable because he won't be able to take a hit and survive.

Felix swims with the fishes if he doesn't have any of Kitty's Hearts to protect him. Poor cat.

STAGE 1

Each Stage consists of two Sections. Each Section in Stage 1 is easy to complete. The key to it is to collect as many Felix Heads as you can. Make sure that you enter the Magic Bag in each of the Sections. They're full of Felix Heads and will reward you with a Power-Up.

Some enemies will fall off the ledges. Some won't. Jump up and clear 'em before they fall on you.

If you have the Tank at the end of Stage 1, your battle with Psychohead should be quick and easy.

STAGE 2

Felix takes to the skies in the first Section of Stage 2. It shouldn't be a problem to transform your transportation from an Umbrella to a Balloon to an Airplane. If you have the Airplane upon entering the pyramid, you'll automatically be given a fully Powered-Up Tank.

Floating along with the Umbrella is a little slow. Go for the Felix heads as fast as you can.

Because of gravity, the Fortress that Felix launches from the balloon travels in a downward arc. Forties accordingly.

Rock Bottom levels around as a trap, stick in a side chamber and Felix doesn't have much room to maneuver. Fire away!

STAGE 3

A heavily-forested Stage 3 is the next area that Felix must fight his way through if he wants to rescue Kitty. No, he doesn't need a chainsaw. The land has been clear-cut already. Jump from stump to stump while collecting Felix Heads.

Felix will have to double back around some of the tree stumps to pick up various Felix Heads. It's not difficult.

Use the spring to bounce up to the Magic Bag in the first Section of Stage 3. Enter and collect!

Meteor Cylinder moves up and down the right side and shoots lasers at you. Move in and shoot at him when he fires off a laser.

Avoid the gas and collect the Felix Heads! Wait until you have a better weapon to take out the gas.

STAGE 4

The waves and swells of the sea won't be enough to stop Felix. Maybe the vicious sea life will, though. If Felix collects enough Felix Heads, a Dolphin will appear and will give him a ride through the treacherous seas. The beach balls that the Dolphin shoots are much better than the Boxing Glove that Felix carries with him for protection in the Life Raft.

Watch out for spiky fish! Look before you leap into the water.

When the Life Raft collects heads, you'll be able to go under the villains and avoid danger.

STAGE 5

Stage 5 is set in outer space. The first Section sees Felix taking the helm of a Spaceship. There is only one ship for him to pilot—there are no Powered-Up versions. However, you must continue to collect Felix Heads in order to keep up your supply of life-sustaining Milk Bottles. The second Section takes place on a lunar surface. Try to Power-Up to the Tank.

Shoot the asteroids that fly into your path. The Spaceship's laser will take them out easily.

Shoot the alien ship quickly or stay entirely out of the way. It usually enters the picture from the bottom half of the screen.

The large alien moon will take more than one hit to blow it up. Carry back one from a distance if you can.

Galpo, King of the Bats, thinks he's king of the sea. Prove him wrong by flinging his scaly body right out of the water!

Watch out for the bats in The Professor's labcoat. They can be quite tricky!

PROFESSOR!

The Professor has Felix's Magic Bag in his sights, but Felix has other things on his mind! He's come that far and he's not going to give up on Kitty.

Get away at The Professor and grab one of the three Magic Bags when you need some Power-Up assistance!

Pinball™

DREAMS

The bells, whistles and flashing lights of a pinball machine can attract any game player. Gametek has brought that attraction to Game Boy in the exciting new game, Pinball Dreams. This Game Pak includes three different pinball games that appeal to players of every skill level. Good graphics and game control make it worth playing again and again.

▶ IGNITION

Good speed and a well-placed 1-yaat make Ignition a challenging game to play. Scoring in this game can be tricky, especially hitting the Jackpot, but hitting the Hold Bonus will carry your bonus over to the next ball.

JACKPOT TRAP

Advances the lights by dropping the targets in the right hand corner. Hit the trap when the lights are lit to get the Jackpot or an Extra Ball. If the lights are not lit, the game gets each time you hit the trap.

BONUS MULTIPLIER

Each time you light all the bonus, the bonus will be multiplied. You can manipulate the figures to make the bonus lower or higher. When you flip about the ball, drop it through the flashing light for an easy XL.

COLLECT FUEL

Drop all four targets to light up the bonus in this trap. Afterwards, you can score big with a quick shot in the top. Collect the fuel and your score will shoot up.

IGNITION

When you drop these three targets you receive a letter. Spelling the word IGNITION will award your bonus 10x which can be useful not to lose the ball on the rebound.

Steel Wheel

PINBALL DREAMS

Steel Wheel is a fast pinball game. Being the most challenging game of the three, many players will be frustrated when they lose a ball in the large side drains.

TICKET RAMPS

Both of these ramps are great for racking up your score. While the right ramp will light the Special Bonus on the left trap, hitting the left ramp will award extra points.

BONUS MULTIPLIER

When you light all the bonus lights the bonus will be multiplied. Be sure to make good use of the flippers to position the ball back between the ball so you'll get the added bonus!

STEAM

Spell the word STEAM by dropping all the targets on the left side. Every time you succeed in doing this, the Ticket Price of the ramp rises.

BALL TRAPS

Light the targets on the right side will advance the lights on the ball traps. Put the ball in the trap to enter the bonus. Enter the ball traps to cross the Jackpot.

GRAVEYARD

Graveyard is the easiest of the three games in Pinball Dreams. The scores that players can achieve with this game are incredibly high. Easy-to-hit ramps, lots of targets and a multi-ball option make this game a scream.

JACKPOT RAMP

Shooting the ball up this ramp three times will activate the Ball Locks. The fourth time you send it up the ramp, you hit the Jackpot. With the maximum Jackpot being 3 million points, you can really score big here!

MIDNIGHT RAMPS

Each time you see the ball through both of the two ramps, the time grows closer to midnight. Before midnight, the ramps are worth 1 million points and just after midnight they are worth 5 million points each time you hit them.

BALL LOCKS

After you have enabled the Ball Locks, try to put a ball into each of these locks. If you do, the multi-ball option kicks in and the score really gets scary.

HOW CAN I EARN LOTS OF MEDALS?

Sharon Hines

You'll save yourself some cash if you stash away lots of Medals. A good way to collect them is to visit a Sound Master, such as the one above Horizon Gate, and challenge him to naming notes.

Near the end of the area is a brown platform that rises and falls. Hop on and ride up to the Sound Master, where you can play his musical game to earn Medals. Use the Medals at Exchangeya Shops to open Treasure Chests and take their contents. Sometimes the chests contain normal items, but other times they contain valuables such as the Hyaoblow. You must pay the shopkeeper ten Medals to open each of the chests.

HOW DO I DEFEAT THE KING?

Ryan Hanson

You can either pay to leave the Caryards or challenge the King as the Arena. Fight the other opponents, then, if you've built your Body to 6 or 7, take on the King. When your stamina is nearly gone, he'll run off the screen to the right. Walk slowly after him but stop when half of his body is visible. He won't be able to fire at you, but you can shoot repeatedly to take him out and earn 4000 Nuyen and the right to exit the Caryards.

When the King has depleted most of your stamina, he'll run to the right.

Walk slowly to the right. When he's halfway off the screen, stop and attack the King.

HOW DO I DEACTIVATE THE CORTEX BOMB?

Visit the Street Doc in Old Town and ask him about the Datajack. He will examine you for 500 Nuyen. He sets off a Cortex Bomb, which you'll have about 15 minutes to defuse. Take the Memorial to Daley station. Exit the station, walk up, cross the street, then go right to the next office building. Enter and talk to the secretary. She will show you in to see Dr. Maplethorpe, who will defuse the bomb and repair your Datajack for 2000 Nuyen. He also sells Cyberware.

When the Street Doc in Old Town examines you, he sets off a more delayed Cortex Bomb.

Take the Memorial to Daley Station, exit, walk up, cross the street, and continue to the right.

When you talk to Dr. Maplethorpe, he'll offer to defuse the bomb and fix your Datajack.

HOW DO I LEARN SPELLS?

You'll learn special spells from H'ouchan-ikwa, the Dog Spirit who hangs out in the third warehouse at the Docks. You first met the Dog Spirit in the Alley near the Town Square of the first area, and you'll learn your first spell, Heal, when you've collected the Magic Fetish, the Dog Collar and the Leaves. You'll get the collar from the barking dog you free from the park near the Alley, the Magic Fetish from the Shaman you revive in the Graveyard Tomb, and the Leaves from Kitsune, the singer at the Jagged Nails Club. Return to visit the Dog Spirit to learn new spells when you've recovered the other items it requests.

We showed the second Warp in Volume 49. There are two more, one in Stage 1, and one in Stage 4. At the end of Stage 1, defeat the Psyko Pigs quickly.

ice area. Stand on the first falling platform and let it drop halfway to the floor. Jump up and down to make it rise again, and search for the Warp to Stage 6 just below the ceiling.

In Stage 4, jump on the platform to make it rise. The Warp near the ceiling leads to Stage 6.

? HOW DO I GET THE 1-UP IN STAGE 1? ?

The 1-Up in Stage 1 appears to be out of reach, but there is a way to get it. First, you need to get a Walker leg. After you defeat the Walker in Stage 1, you should see one or two legs left behind on the ground. Stand over a leg and press the B Button to pick it up. Next, line up the Toad's shadow with the 1-Up's shadow. Finally, swing the Walker leg to retrieve the 1-Up. It's a toadally cool move that may come in handy later, too.

After you defeat the Stage 1 Walker, look on the carefully line up the Toad's shadow with the 1-Up's shadow, then swing the Walker leg.

? IS THERE A WAY TO GET OTHER 1-UPS? ?

In Stage 2, you'll meet a big-beaked raven—and we do mean BIG—that coughs up a 1-Up if you persevere in your attack. Keep beating it against the walls, racking up points, until you pass the 10,000 point mark. Your next hit will earn you a 1-Up. Try this trick with other big-beaked ravens in the game, too. Each of them yields a single 1-Up but the other ravens in the game give you only the 10,000 points.

The raven you encounter in Stage 2 has a services book that you'll have to break.

Keep hitting the bird against the walls to earn plenty of points.

When you've scored 10,000 points, your next blow will make the bird cough up a 1-Up.

HOW DO I GET THE BONUS POD IN 3-3?

Although it's a difficult move, you can retrieve the Bonus Pod by the moving floor in Stage 3-3. Stand a few steps to the left of the floor and hold the B Button down. (To get to the left while you're on the moving floor, you'll have to jump.) The movement of the floor will pull your character to the right, and you'll come down right on top of the pod and crack it open. You'll probably have better luck managing this maneuver using either Billy or Jimmy Lee.

In Stage 3-3, jump to the left, stand next to the moving floor and hold the B Button.

The movement of the floor will pull you to the right, where you'll land on the Bonus Pod.

HOW DO I DEFEAT THE COLOSSUS?

The Colossus, boss of Stage 4, is a rat-like ship that has ten body parts, and it fights like a rabid animal. You'll have to destroy each of the body parts individually as you dodge the items it throws out at you. The body sections disappear as you defeat them. Start with the front sections of the left rockets on the right and left sides of the Colossus, then aim for the tip of the rat's nose. When the nose is gone, blast the lasers at its teeth. Next, go for the center and back sections of the right and left rockets, then take out the gun that's mounted on the bottom of the ship. Finally, concentrate your fire on the missile launcher on the rat's nose. Slow motion is a big plus in this battle. Defeat all ten body parts to win.

Start by attacking the front of the rockets at the ship's sides. Keep firing until they explode.

Next, attack the rat ship's nose and teeth; then concentrate your fire on the rockets again.

When you finally destroy the homing-missile launcher at the rat's nose, you'll sink the ship.

2-5 VENOM ORBIT

The final two stages of Course Two have their challenging moments. The Metal Smasher Boss at the end of 2-5 is tough, but the Galactic Rider of 2-6 is easy to beat with a couple of well-timed Nova Bombs.

STAGE 2-5: Battle the Metal Smasher in the Approach View so you can better judge how far away it is. Use retros to avoid its crushing attack and concentrate your fire on one ball at a time.

STAGE 2-6: Destroy the space cars that career out of control at this point. As you vaporize them, be watchful of the ring laser buoys they drop on the road!

STAGE 2-6: You can get a Shield Power-up about two-thirds of the way into this stage. At this point, you should destroy the attacking missiles, but you can simply cut them over the Space Kiosk.

STAGE 2-6: After you get the first Nova Bomb, swerve to the left and look for a Twin Blaster item further into the course. Note that you cannot hit the wings of your ship on the floor or ceiling.

STAGE 2-6: Fly between the three pairs of pillars on the left and look for a Twin Blaster item further into the course. Note that you cannot hit the wings of your ship on the floor or ceiling.

2-8 VENOM BASE

3-2 ASTEROIDS

Course Three is tough. There are more enemies and they seem stronger and tougher. In 3-2, there are "smart" asteroids, and in 3-3, living creatures charge to attack. Your wingmen will be shot down very quickly if you don't save them!

STAGE 3-3: Munch Jokers, a two-headed shark-like dragon, rules Tiltaw. To defeat it, first shoot the tail, being careful to avoid its eggs. When it turns, shoot its heads until its necks are gone.

STAGE 3-2: There are many new hazards in this strange belt. Avoid the small fog ships that push some asteroids and dodge the asteroids that look like they bite faces. They will fly straight at you!

STAGE 3-2: To wrap in the nebula, shoot the large asteroid on the right until an egg comes out. When the egg hatches, catch a ride on the giant bird's claws. Warning: There is no escape from the nebula.

STAGE 3-3: Watch for fast-spraying fogs in this stage! It's best to stay low, below their leaves, but don't ignore the giant hornets. They must be driven off by laser fire as they'll attack from behind.

STAGE 3-2: There are more Asteroid Tugs here. Be sure to get the Twin Blaster and Nerve Bomb items at this point in the stage.

3-3 FORTUNA

3-4 SECTOR Z

These stages take you through outer and inner space. With its crystal monoliths, Sector Z is the most challenging space course. In the Macbeth stage, you'll fly through the volcanic core of a planet, with volcanoes erupting all around you!

STAGE 3-4 Good luck! To best avoid the transparent monoliths, stick to the right or left side of the course. A red arrow will blink at the edge of the STAGE 3-5 At this point, tanks and plasma ball can runs are stabilized on the ceiling! The easiest way to clear the area of these enemies is to use Nova Bombs.

STAGE 3-4 Fly through the two rectangles formed by the monoliths to make a Supply Circle appear. You'll be ready to replenish your stock at this point.

STAGE 3-5 A Twin Master mine is hidden among the blocks at here. It takes quick maneuvering using the L & R buttons to make the dash through to collect it.

STAGE 3-4 Maneuver through the monoliths intelligently formed here to make an extra Nova Bomb disappear.

3-5 MACBETH

3-6 VENOM ORBIT

The final two stages are, of course, the most challenging. You'll encounter the formidable Great Commander not once, but twice. Watch out for the walls in 3-7—they'll close in on you unless you change their directions.

STAGE 3-6 The Great Commander's vulnerable parts are the six ballers that flank the ship. You can damage them only when they're open. When STAGE 3-7 When you clear the first two arches, which are at some distance from the others, a Bomb will appear here.

STAGE 3-7 Go under the first two arches here, then slide out and go under the one on the right to make a Bomb show up in this area.

STAGE 3-6 There's a stationary tower to be had here. First, take the Bomb from the center. That will make a Power Shield and Two Blasters appear.

STAGE 3-7 Just when you think this stage, falling pillars will threaten your ship. Stay high in the center to avoid them. Don't use Boosters or try Killing—you'll probably hit a pillar if you do.

SUPER STAR THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK WARS

HothHog

The HothHog is one of the dinosaurs of the ice planet Hoth which Luke must defeat. Many of the creatures seen in the game have appeared in the movie.

The Making of A Masterpiece

Kalani Streicher has a view of the Forest Moon of Endor from his office at LucasArts Entertainment Co. in San Rafael, so it should come as no surprise that he spends much of his time plotting the downfall of the Empire. From this room filled with maps and pictures of alien worlds, he planned and directed the latest Star Wars epic—Super Empire Strikes Back, due for release this fall by JVC. This 12 megabit Super NES sequel to last year's hit, Super Star Wars, has been in the works for two years. The project has required thousands of hours of effort from artists, programmers and animators, but their vision paid off in what may well be the ultimate action adventure.

HOW IT ALL BEGAN

THE MAKING OF Super EMPIRE

About the spring of 1991, midway through the development of Super Star Wars, Kalani had already begun planning his next tour de force. He had soon his original project venture into areas seldom explored by video games and he wanted the next game to take full advantage of the programming wizardry created by co-developer, Sculptured Software. There was never any doubt that "Empire" would be his subject, so Kalani began envisioning how he could bring that story to life. He pictured a Mode 7 stage where players fly across a 3-D landscape in a snowspeeder, then wrap a cable around the legs of an Imperial Walker. He pictured Luke earning Jedi powers on Dagobah and Han Solo escaping from TIE fighters in an asteroid field. In all, 20 stages slowly took shape over the next two years and more than a dozen artists and programmers devoted their time to the vision.

Kalani and crew didn't have to go far to see what the Star Wars ships and droids looked like. The set-dresser at Skywalker Ranch became a source of props, costumes and pictures.

From left, the creative team at LucasArts includes producer Kieran Stroncher, art supervisor Harrison Fong, Peter Chan (background), animation supervisor Joe Gorfes, and Paul Meza (animation, not pictured).

LIGHT & MAGIC

THE MAKING OF Super Empire

One reason for the success of Super Star Wars was that the game pushed beyond what other developers thought was possible or practical. Led by Peter Ward, Ryan Ridges, and John Lund, the team at Sculptured goes even further in Super Empire.

The realism of the asteroid stage comes in large part from the scaling of asteroid sprites. Since scaling takes lots of processing time, the conventional wisdom is that scaling sprites will slow a game dramatically

That isn't the case here. Empire uses several different sizes of sprites and the scaling process simply enlarges a sprite until it reaches the next larger size, then the larger sprite appears and it in turn gets scaled even larger. The result is a smooth scaling effect with very detailed objects. It's both memory efficient and truly dramatic.

The asteroids scale large as the Millennium Falcon flies through the field. The programmers figured out a way to achieve this realism without using the Super FX chip.

Other technical wonders are found in the speeder stages and when the X-wing flies over the clouds. The sense of speed is imparted from splitting the screen and scrolling two different images. The background (above the horizon) scrolls conventionally left and right. The foreground (below the horizon) is created from a topographical map. Using Mode 7, the map is tilted sideways and the 3-D textures look like surface features as it scrolls beneath you. In Empire, these maps also rise and fall, giving the illusion of passing over hills and valleys.

Advances in programming have also been made in sound by Sculptured's Paul Webb. Besides hearing the voices of Darth Vader and Yoda, you'll be bombarded with digitized sounds of ion guns, Lightsabers, TIE fighters and Tauntauns. In order to preserve the speed of play, bulky digitized sound information is down-loaded between cycles.

The swampy world of Dagobah.

USING THE FORCE

THE MAKING OF STAR WARS EMPIRE

One of the great advantages LucasArts has over most developers is the amount of materials available to them. Not only do they have the film, but they have a vast library of music and sound effects, painted backdrops, props, costumes, scripts, novels and most important of all, they are all fans who know and love Star Wars. In the archives at Skywalker Ranch you can find a dozen R2-D2s and just about everything ever seen in any Lucasfilm production. Some of the models won't look familiar, however, since the scenes in which they appeared ended up on the editing room floor. This is one source for the new characters that appear in Super Empire, but the team also created entirely new creatures. It wasn't their intention to duplicate the movie scene by scene, but to provide an interactive experience based on the film.

Here on carbon freeze suits he used in the game just as in the movie.

So what goes into the creation of new foes? It starts with a recognition of the type of stage in which the creature will appear. On Dagobah, the creatures can swim in the water, run on land, climb in the trees or fly. Each has a different attack and artificial intelligence (AI). The AI is like a type of radar. The AI for some creatures is very complex, allowing them to zero in on you, while for others it consists of simpler search patterns. The designers plan one attack to compliment the next, which necessitates that players use all their skills. For instance, a ground attacking foe might chase Luke toward another creature that suddenly pops out of the ground, forcing Luke to leap away. Their guiding principle was to keep Luke constantly reacting to new challenges, and it worked. This is one of the most challenging games around.

IceCat

Not only do the artists have AI create the creature's appearance, but also its behavior. In the case of the IceCat, it leaps and attacks and bounces over to short pipes.

BEYOND STAR WARS

THE MAKING OF STAR WARS EMPIRE

According to Kalani, the supreme master of all Star Wars related gaming development at LucasArts: "We try to push the limits of our games both technologically and artistically." The push for Super Empire has been to perfect the action/adventure genre of video games. Due to memory space limits, each stage has about 700 to 800 characters with which to create backgrounds and foregrounds. The effect of endlessly new landscapes is really a trick of using a limited number of

was getting the cone to curve correctly and look natural. In the end, the animation looks almost cinematic.

landscape modules that can be fit together any which way. The same efficiency was used with animation and characters. Animation sequences like an X-wing flying toward a planet may look like 30 frames, but is really 10 frames or less. The X-wing itself may use the same character flip-flopped for both wing sets, thereby halving memory requirements. The result is that this game has more memory space available for variety, like Luke's eight Jedi Force powers, more digitized vocals, more animated cinema scenes and new graphic effects

IMPRESSIVE!

THE MAKING OF Star Wars EMPIRE

What does Kalam hope to add to the Star Wars legacy? "I hope that the games expand the Star Wars world," he says. "With every game you make, that world becomes more real. We're bringing it to life." In fact, the reality may become further blurred in the future as LucasArts' special effects magicians at Industrial Light &

Development on each of the stages began by creating maps that layed out each area screen-by-screen.

Gundarc

Magic and the gaming group delve into each other's fields. Someday there may be no division. In the meantime, that matt painting of the Moon of Endor in his office reminds Kalam that there are new worlds to conquer, and the next is Super Return of the Jedi!

This montage represents LucasArts' planning stages. The next step was to create computer art in G-force Paint and special development tools created by Sculptured. Finally the finished computer art and animation was entered into the game along with program instructions on how characters move and interact.

INDIANA JONES

and the
LAST CRUSADE

One of the greatest heroes the early-twentieth century world has ever known is about ready to slam into your NES, courtesy of UBI Soft. Indy's third chronicled adventure is the subject of this action game.

INDY RIDES AGAIN!

After three box-office smashes and a few video games under his belt, Indiana Jones, defender of goodness, charges back with another NES release. The game more or less follows the story line of the movie, with major events incorporated into the stages. One of the best things about the game is that it gives you a password after you have completed each stage. The game play itself is rather easy in some respects and rather difficult in others. For example, some of the bosses are exceptionally easy to defeat while other minor enemies can be very hazardous. The hit detection and play control could have used some more fine tuning, but as with other games that have the same complications, you can adjust your style of play to compensate for it. In all, Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade provides a fair challenge.

Indy's image will appear between stages to introduce the next test.

Each Stage is tried, so there's no time to waste. Make your move, Indy!

Creatures that wouldn't normally intimidate Indy can slow him down tremendously.

STAGE 1 Exploring the Caves

INDIANA JONES
AND THE
LAST CRUSADE

The Caves are very dark. It will be important for Indy to pick up any Torches he may come across. They will light his way for just over one minute. Without them, Indy may stumble upon pots, buckets or other materials placed in the Caves. The enemies that roam the Caves should be approached quickly and punched in the same manner. Watch out for flying bullets as you approach, though. It may help to crouch down when you begin to punch.

If you crouch, a shot from a standing foe will go over Indy's head. Enemies don't fire rapidly.

The Cross of Colorado is Indy's goal in the Caves. Our maps will help you nab it without a problem.

BIG BOSS!

If you crouch down in the position shown and punch, you should be able to defeat the Big Boss without even a dome of hat. It's way too easy!

STAGE 2 Escaping on the Train

Indy finds himself riding a speeding train in Stage 2. The bad guys are after him and he's gotta get off! Proceed to the right, jumping from car to car. If you miss a jump and fall between the cars, well...that's all she wrote! Try again. This stage isn't very long, but unfortunately, there's danger everywhere. Be sure to get and use the Whip.

The Train is where you'll find and first use the Whip. Press Select to access it.

EVIL INDIAN BRAVE

Defeating this character can be a hassle if you don't know how to do it. Move just to the left of him and crouch down. While he fires an arrow over your head, smack him five or six times with the Whip. Stop whipping, stand, and jump over the arrow he fires when he crouches.

STAGE 3 Entering the Catacombs

As before, this stage is timed. If you spend time going into unnecessary areas, you could very easily end up running out of time. The best route to take to collect the four pieces that make up the Tablet is mapped out for you. In the upper half of the Catacombs, you can take different routes, but the one that is mapped should get you out of the area the fastest. If you don't collect all four pieces of the Tablet, you won't get out.

It will be important to pick up this Holy Grail. Without it, you may run out of time. Not good!

Hang on the rope until this Grail Guard shoots then drop down and quickly use your Whip on him.

You haven't collected all four Tablet pieces, yet!

BREATHER OF FIRE

This huge Holy Grail protector likes to drink fire water! Move in close and head away it him with your Whip. He'll take a drink from his bottle, and swallow the volatile liquid around a bit before he spits out a fireball at you. Just before he spits, move to the left to avoid getting fried.

STAGE 4 Assault on Brunwald

INDIANA JONES
AND THE
LAST CRUSADE

Indy's assault on Castle Brunwald is a difficult task. He'll have to make excellent use of the time that he has allotted to complete the mission and piece together his father's diary. There's really no time to waste! Even using our mapped-out route, you still may have some trouble. It's that difficult! One of the more difficult moves is to jump out from a ledge and grab onto a ladder. It's easy to miss and fall to the ledges or water below.

If a ledge is on a platform higher than the one that you're on, just crush down next to the platform and swing away with your Whip. Easy peasy!

Once you've reached and crossed the Gap, you'll have to make a long leap out and down to the left. You'll probably sustain some damage.

Indy can also hang on the ladders and use his wickedly powerful Whip. Catch unsuspecting Soldiers of guard and send 'em packing!

THE SNIPER

This soldier has a big gun and he'll use it to stop Indy in your battle, treat him like the Indian Brave before. Use your Whip while crouching or jumping to avoid the Sniper's bullets as they blaze from the dangerous gun.

BEYOND STAGE 4

A testing bout with furious enemies on a sky-sword-bound airship awaits Indy in Stage 5. We're sure that he's looking forward to it. Finally, on Stage 6, Indy is tested by three trials. We won't tell you what the trials are, but Indy has to complete them if he wants to obtain the Grail and save his wounded father.

The maze-like airship will challenge Indy's climbing abilities and grace of descent, too. Many battles lie ahead!

CARTOON WORKSHOP

TM

If you're expecting another Tiny Toon Adventures action game, you'll just have to wait. Cartoon Workshop isn't an action game at all. Surprisingly, that's the best thing about it! Just as Nintendo's Super Mario Paint expanded the horizons of creativity with the Super NES, Konami's Cartoon Workshop seems poised to do much the same for the NES. Have you ever wanted to create your own cartoons? Now you can! Step up and take your seat in the Director's Chair. And remember, you can't lose!

TAKE ONE . . . CUT!

It will take practice to put together a professional-looking animated Tiny Toon Adventures sequence. One of the best things to do before you start is to read the manual and understand all of the program's functions. The manual contains a wealth of information and will help you tremendously. With patience, and many retakes, you should be churning out hilarious spoof performances that feature Buster Bunny, Babs Bunny, Plucky Duck and other Tiny Toons favorites.

CALL THE SHOTS

Cartoon Workshop is very easy to use and understand once you know what all of the functions are and what they can do for you. Cartoon-making is very linear; it's from "here" to "there," but editing within those constraints is easy.

1 BACKGROUND

There are 19 different backgrounds for you to choose from. Eight are detailed scenic surroundings, but 11 are just solid colors.

2 CHARACTER #1-STAR

You can have two characters on the screen at the same time or one character and one prop. Choose your star and then choose from their available animations. Each character has several animations available, but some are stills.

3 CHARACTER #2-PROP

Plucky is padding away when all of a sudden the prop, an angry fish, jumps out of the water and starts to chase him! What will Plucky do now? Of course, it's up to you.

4 EDIT THE FILM

You can scroll forward or backward through your animation to insert or delete characters, props, sound effects, music or dialogue boxes. Here, Plucky has seen the angry fish and has decided to get out of there!

5 ADDING DIALOGUE

Scroll through your animation to find a place where Plucky looks like he might say something and edit in a dialogue box. There are 30 preprogrammed captions to choose from.

6 ADD MUSIC

If the tempo of your animation changes because of some event, you may want to scroll to the point that it changes and switch the music to match the action.

TIPS FROM DIRECTORS

PRODUCER

While still very young, the Tiny Toon Adventures characters have starred in so many flicks that they feel very comfortable giving information and help to those who are just starting out in the cartoon business. Heed their words. Practice the techniques and build on the knowledge that they pass along. The information they present will help to make your animated presentation more professional-looking. If all else fails, refer to the manual.

Buster Bunny

"Hey! Check it out! If you really want to add 'special touch' to your animations, use plenty of sound effects. They can really improve your status with the top cartoon producers."

With Buster here and now, it's time for you to start watching your favorite cartoon and a character tell you "hey, would you expect to hear something?" Sure you would! So let's the feature in the animation where Buster takes the dust. Go to the Sound Menu and press the Control Pad Up or Down and you'll find a sound effect for the situation.

In this example, instead of just having a sound effect go off at the desired frame, why not make Buster and go going down in a cloud of smoke? It could be a "smoke and burn" type of effect. You can retain your sound effect, too! When the smoke clears, cut back to Buster and continue on. Effects like this just shy an audience!

Babs Bunny

"Like Buster, I like to concentrate on details. You can take effects one step farther by adding a visual effect to go along with your sound effect."

Furrball

Babs mentioned that you could change Buster into a cloud of smoke, right? Well, you have to go into the Character 1 Menu and find the Scissors first. You can switch characters with it.

In order to change Buster into a cloud of smoke, you'll have to add Buster and replace him with the cloud. Bring up the Scissors icon in the Character 1 Menu and press the A Button to select it. A menu of options will appear. Choose Delete Actor and then go back into the Character 1 Menu and load the appropriate cloud.

Plucky Duck

"Being the technical wizard that I am, I'm here to tell you how to record your cartoons. You have to connect your NES to a VCR. You can use the RF Switch or the A/V Cable. Check the manual for more info."

Plucky's suggestion to record your animations was right on target. Since Cartoon Workshop won't save your cool creations, you have to use another medium to save them. A VCR is the obvious choice. Cartoon Workshop is so easy to use, you'll be able to build up quite a library of cartoons in just a short period of time. Considering the fact that the longest animation you can make is about eight minutes, you can store many animations on one tape!

GET ON SOMEONE'S GOOD SIDE

Why would you want to make an animation for your parents? Well let's say you and your siblings have been goofing off and getting in trouble. Why not let Babs and Buster give your apologies? Here, first Buster takes a tumble, and then squirts Babs in the face. They then make up and her heart shows that all is forgiven. Finally, it's time to turn that sweet charm on for Mom and Dad.

A NEW WAY TO SAY "HAPPY BIRTHDAY!"

Send a friend a videotape of one of your favorite animated creations and incorporate a "Happy Birthday" message into it. In this fun animation, Calamity Coyote transforms into a cactus and sneaks up on Little Beeper. He intends to explode a Happy Birthday message onto the little Road-runner, but ends up burning himself.

BE WACKY, BE WILD, BE DIFFERENT!

With all the options that Konami's Cartoon Workshop presents, you can have hours upon hours of endless fun. When you become an expert at editing, you can thrill your friends and family with award-winning animations.

NOW SEPTEMBER 1993 PLAYING

LOOK FOR THESE RELEASES SOON

TERMINATOR 2: THE MOVIE

Company	Acclaim
Suggested Retail Price	$59.95
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	8 Megabits
Game Type	One-player action

The Terminator must find John Connor and protect him from the new and improved threat of the metamorph T2, which has been sent from the future to destroy Connor. If you've seen the movie, you'll recognize most of the stages in this game as they closely follow the movie's plot. You'll find an arsenal of weapons along the way and undertake separate missions that include driving a motorcycle and other vehicles. Throughout the game, vital computer messages appear on the screen just as they did in the movie, but some of the messages aren't important, so you must decide what's important and what's not. There are eight levels of non-stop action with a number of objectives in each. To move ahead in the game, you must complete your mission. John and Sarah also enter the game, and you must protect them as best you can.

➤ The stages of the game closely follow the scenes in the movie. There is a good variety of play situations including driving stages.

➤ Text messages are often difficult to read. Play control is awkward in certain stages. There's virtually no way to avoid taking hits in the side-scrolling action scenes. Finding and collecting items can be difficult and frustrating. Some of the high challenge level is due to the difficulties noted above.

SUPER MARIO ALL-STARS

Company	Nintendo
Suggested Retail Price	$59.95
Release Date	August 1993
Memory Size	16 Megabits
Game Type	Four classic Super Mario Bros. games for one or two players alternating turns

Some games don't get older, they just get better. That's certainly the case with the four games in Super Mario All-Stars. These games include Super Mario Bros., SMB 2, SMB 3, and The Lost Levels (a super challenging variation of Super Mario Bros. that only appeared in Japan.) The four games have been recreated as 16-bit titles. Take a closer look at The Lost Levels in this month's review.

➤ Excellent graphics and classic Super Mario Bros. action. The battery-backed-up memory lets you save your progress, which means players who never finished these games in the past have a good chance to succeed now. The Lost Levels presents a true action challenge.

➤ Other than the face-lift, the only new element is The Lost Levels and the Battery Save feature.

FAMILY FEUD

Company	Gametek
Suggested Retail Price	Not Available
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	4 Megabits
Game Type	Television quiz game show

Gametek's latest television game show turned Super NES video game asks the question, do you think like other people? The idea behind Family Feud is simple and fun. To score points, you have to fill in the blank word or phrase the way the majority of people would fill them in. For instance, 99% of people would say Nintendo Power if asked to name a video game magazine.

➤ Easy to play with lots of questions as you'll seldom find repetitions. This is a great party game, because as many players as you want can join in the fun.

➤ The graphics and sound don't add much to the excitement. The video families don't really have personality.

WING COMMANDER: THE SECRET MISSIONS

Company..... Mindscape
Suggested Retail Price..... $64.95
Release Date..... September 1993
Memory Size..... 8 Megabits
Game Type..... Space flight combat simulation and strategy

Fans of the original Wing Commander won't be disappointed by this second set of missions from Mindscape. The Kilrathi forces are in retreat throughout human space, but they have one trick left up their sleeves. A doomsday gravity bomb has been developed and deployed to the planet of Goddard II. There, the crew of the Tiger Claw and the fighter pilots who have been fighting the invaders must make their final stand. Like Wing Commander, The Secret Missions is much more than a space shooter. Excellent cinema scenes relate an epic sci-fi tale between battles. The mission briefings and options aboard the Tiger Claw will be familiar to Wing Commander vets, but the missions are all new and more complex than ever. Control of the fighters is essentially the same as in the first game, but there are two levels of difficulty—Rookie and Ace. Once you've settled in at the relatively easy Rookie level, you're ready for anything the Kilrathi can throw at you, and they can throw a lot. There are 16 new missions plus new ships.

➤ Excellent graphics, control and story make this one of the premier space combat games. Two levels of difficulty and a password save often make this game accessible to all players who are willing to spend some time learning the intricacies of the game. It's worth the effort.

➤ Many control functions are quite complex and take a lot of practice to memorize.

ROCK 'N ROLL RACING

Company..... Interplay
Suggested Retail Price..... Not Available
Release Date..... September 1993
Memory Size..... 8 Megabits
Game Type..... Futuristic battle racing for two players

Interplay could have called this game Soundtracks. The sound is what attracts players first—we're talking classic, driving rock and roll like Boom To Be Wild and Highway Star—but soon the game itself catches the imagination. You can catch hold of the fun, too, in this month's Power review.

➤ The best rock soundtrack available on the Super NES adds energy and fun to the game. Good car control, cool cars, some interesting track variations and plenty of customizing options. An excellent two-player, split screen game.

➤ Only five songs in the game, which can get old after awhile. More track variety and A/L for computer drivers would give the game more depth.

SUPER OFF-ROAD: THE BAJA

Company..... Tradewest
Suggested Retail Price..... Not Available
Release Date..... September 1993
Memory Size..... 8 Megabits
Game Type..... Off-road 4x4 racing

Tradewest puts the player into the action in this sequel to Super Off-Road. No longer in the stadium, you'll be part of the roughest auto endurance test in the world, the Baja 1,000—that's 1,000 punishing miles of desert track. As your truck careers over the 3-D terrain, you'll wonder if it is simulated or real! Your 4x4 isn't limited to racing on one track, either. You can take side tracks, hoping to leap ahead of the leaders with a spurt of nitro boosted power. Collect money for winning different legs of the race, then build up your truck and head back to the dust.

➤ The new, behind-the-truck view improves both the play and realism of the game over the original Super Off-Road. Great graphics.

➤ There's not enough penalty in time or money for smashing into ATVs and other obstacles. The desert courses don't vary substantially in character, so although the endurance factor is high, as it should be, the depth of play is not what it could be.

YOSHI'S SAFARI

Company	Nintendo
Suggested Retail Price	$39.95
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	8 Megabits
Game Type	Superscope running and shooting

Hop aboard Yoshi for the strangest safari on video! Riding dino-back, you'll aim your Super Scope at an assortment of baddies that appear in front of you in a Mario Kart-like view. Use the Scope to blast the critters, but also to steer. If you play Yoshi, he'll give you a look that seems to say, "Watch it, buster!" At the end of each safari leg, you'll face a particularly nasty surprise in the form of a big bad boss. In the two-player option, Player-Two can control basic direction, speed and jumping using the Controller.

Yoshi fans will eat up the unique experience of riding their green friend. Fun graphics give this game a lot of character. Two-player cooperative play is fun and especially good for very young players.

Younger players will probably find the challenge level just right, but experienced gamers might want a little more action. There's not much variety of play.

SUPER SLAP SHOT

Company	Virgin Games
Suggested Retail Price	Not Available
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	4 Megabits
Game Type	Ice hockey

Virgin Games takes to the ice with Super Slap Shot for the Super NES. This hockey game features 32 national and city teams rather than NHL franchise teams. You can play a tournament or a single exhibition game against a human or computer opponent. Fighting options let you duke it out on the ice, but you may have to spend time in the penalty box. Referees can range anywhere between being blind or tough—it's up to you. You also get to adjust the strength of your team between shooting, power, passing, speed, defense and goals.

The custom team option lets you create the strengths of your favorite team.

The side perspective shows the action only around the puck so it is easy to lose track of players elsewhere on the ice. The practice modes don't really help.

LEGENDS OF THE RING

Company	Electro Brain
Suggested Retail Price	Not Available
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	8 Megabits
Game Type	Boxing

Legends of the Ring goes beyond ringside to inside the ring. You can create your own boxer or use one of the greatest middleweights of all time. Eight outstanding fighters, each with his own strengths as identified by Ring magazine were included in this game. Lots of options and realism make it a standout. Turn to this month's Sports Scene for a closer look at the Legends.

Excellent graphics and options. Good punching control.

The close-up view prevents much feeling of motion within the ring, so the strategy of dancing around one's opponent is lost.

THE SEVENTH SAGA

Company	Enix
Suggested Retail Price	Not Available
Release Date	August 1993
Memory Size	12 Megabits
Game Type	Fantasy RPG with battery backed up memory

You must seek the crystals and defeat the forces of Chaos at the bidding of the king while other adventurers vie for the prize. Role-playing gamers will fill up their calendars once they start playing Enix's latest epic. Command parties of four characters through a sprawling land that practically crawls with enemies. Animated battle scenes use a realistic 3-D perspective. Explore The Seventh Saga in this month's review.

Excellent battle scenes. Easy-to-use battle controls. Monster radar on the overworld view to help you evade danger. Good story and depth of play.

Some of the clues are not very helpful and can lead you to waste time and resources. The text translation could have been better.

ROCKY RODENT

Company	Beas
Suggested Retail Price	$59.95
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	8 Megabits
Game Type	Side-scrolling action

Rocky Rodent, whose motto is "dine and dash," has been kicked out of more restaurants than he can count, but now he has the chance to a free lunch for the rest of his life. The only catch is that he must save the daughter of the restaurant owner from the clutches of Mafia heavy, Don Garcia. Rocky sets off through the city, using a spike of hair to flip himself from ledge to ledge and to defeat enemies. In some stages, Rocky must race ahead, leaping over cars filled with enemies for a completely different game experience.

❑ The graphics are quite good, but a little bit unusual in that the buildings and vehicles seem to be taken from the 1940s. Rocky is easy to control, and much of the game is a breeze, but some areas are quite challenging.

❑ What is Rocky? A mole? A rat? There may not be enough consistent challenge for expert players.

WIZARD OF OZ

Company.....Seta
Suggested Retail Price.....$59.95
Release Date.....September 1993
Memory Size.....8 Megabits
Game Type.....Side-scrolling action with puzzles

Dorothy is off to see the Wizard, and along the way she'll meet the Scarecrow, the Tin Man and the Cowardly Lion. Seta has brought the movie classic to life in a richly painted action game with some unique bonus and puzzle areas. As you follow the yellow brick road, you'll collect tickets that allow you to enter the Emerald City. You'll also rescue your companions and discover special items. Between side-scrolling levels, you are shown an overworld map of the four territories of Oz. Here you can choose to proceed toward the Emerald City or to return to one of the areas you previously visited where new items may appear. There are warp zones, mazes and hidden areas you can reach although they are not visible from the regular view. Once Dorothy has rescued a companion, that companion can become your action character. Each character has his or her own special moves and set of useful items. Dorothy's little dog Toto even gets into the act in puzzle stages. Jumping from one letter tile to another, Toto must spell out some signature phrase from the movie—a sort of trivia puzzle. Perhaps the most suggestive element from the movie is the music. Four of the classic songs, including "Follow The Yellow Brick Road" and "If I Only Had A Brain," have been used as background music.

❑ Rich graphics and a wonderful musical score set the Wizard of Oz scene. The action is often quite challenging and there is a ton of hidden items and areas to discover. Clever puzzles add to the variety of play.

❑ Hit detection is a bit off, making some moves awkward or difficult. The top status bar, although it can be turned off, often blocks the view of enemies or items.

INDIANA JONES AND THE LAST CRUSADE

Company.....Ubi Soft
Suggested Retail Price.....$34.95
Release Date.....September 1993
Memory Size.....1 Megabit
Game Type.....Action

Indy's greatest adventure comes to the NES thanks to Ubi Soft in this six stage action game. From the discovery of the Cross of Coronado as a young man to the three trials in the Grail Temple, you'll experience Indy's whip-cracking style of archaeology. Other stages include the circus train full of dangerous animals, the Catacombs of Venice, Braunwald Castle, and the Airship.

❑ The variety of action and the Taser combine to make this game fairly challenging. The music and choice of scenes recreates some of the feel of the movie.

❑ The character graphics are not very impressive, but the animation is quite good for the NES.

WAYNE'S WORLD

Company.....THQ
Suggested Retail Price.....$49.99
Release Date.....September 1993
Memory Size.....2 Megabits
Game Type.....Movie action for one player

Wayne just wants to do his TV show, but everyone seems to want to stop him. In this NES action game from THQ, you play with both Wayne and Garth through a variety of action and bonus stages. Wayne's talent is fighting in a martial arts style while Garth uses a squirt gun to vanquish some seriously weird foes like evil saxophones. The action begins at the music store and continues through four other areas from the movie.

❑ Good music in some stages. Lots of Power-Ups make it easy to progress.

❑ Very little challenge. Oozy graphics.

FINAL FANTASY LEGEND III

Company	Square Soft
Suggested Retail Price	$39.99
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	2 Megabits
Game Type	Fantasy RPG

The epic continues in this sprawling RPG fantasy/sci fi adventure from Square. After an ancient battle, pieces of an incredible ship that could warp through time and space were scattered throughout the world. Now it is your job to rebuild the Eonis and destroy a new threat that has appeared from the Pureland dimension. As always in FF adventures, you'll have a wide world to explore full of magic, weapons, companions, villages and, of course, a vast array of enemies. Nintendo Power's review this month will show you the way to glory in the best Final Fantasy Legend tradition.

✓ Excellent game depth with good graphics for a Game Boy RPG

✗ Don't expect anything new in this game. Although the story is fairly complex, the theme and play might be overly familiar to veteran FF players

FELIX THE CAT

Company	Hudson Soft
Suggested Retail Price	$29.95
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	1 Megabit
Game Type	Comic action

Felix the wonderful cat is back in a game that is virtually identical to the NES original. Felix must use his Magic Bag full of tricks to Power-Up and scamper through danger-filled levels. The side-scrolling stages include areas where Felix must fly, swim, run and jump. The assortment of vehicles is just as broad and fun as in the NES game. This month's Power review lets the cat out of the bag.

✓ The graphics ported well to the Game Boy. Play control and challenge lost nothing in the switch from NES

✗ It would have been nice to have something new from the original game

JURASSIC PARK

Company	Ocean
Suggested Retail Price	$39.95
Release Date	August 1993
Memory Size	2 Megabits
Game Type	Overhead view action

Welcome to the most incredible theme park in history. Last summer's block buster becomes an engaging Game Boy title with few differences from the NES version of the game. This overhead view game takes you through the park as Dr. Grant on various missions. The dinosaurs are loose, though, and that's what makes it a challenge. While avoiding becoming dinosaur chow, you'll collect the access cards that will let you enter the buildings. Help from computer consoles is always near at hand. In addition to the game play, this Pak contains a mini-library of six of the main dinosaurs that appeared in the movie.

✓ Good graphics and fun game play. You really get a sense of the movie danger

✗ Aiming can be awkward because the gun is offset on your shoulder and doesn't shoot straight in front of you

PINBALL DREAMS

Company	Gametek
Suggested Retail Price	Not Available
Release Date	September 1993
Memory Size	1 Megabit
Game Type	Three-in-one pinball games

Three simple but fun pinball games have been bundled into one Game Pak to form Gametek's Pinball Dreams. The action feels very much like real pinball, right down to the jiggle control that can tilt the game. You might become a Pinball Dream wizard by studying the review in this issue.

✓ True pinball feel. Three different games with their own scoring and bonus areas for extra challenge

✗ The fun bells and whistles often found on real pinball machines just aren't to be found here

4-IN-1 FUN PACK

Company.....Interplay
 Suggested Retail Price.....Not Available
 Release Date.....August 1993
 Memory Size.....1 Megabit
 Game Type.....Four classic games in one Game Boy Pak

One or two players (with either Game Boy or Game Linked) can play Solitaire, Dominoes, Crribbage or Yacht (a dice rolling game) in this collection of classics. Each of the games reproduces the original game in an easy-to-play format, and there's no setup or shuffling involved! This game is ideal for traveling where the compact nature of Game Boy really shines.

Four interesting games in a very usable format

Because the rules to Crribbage, Dominoes and Yacht are not at all intuitive. Players may have to study the manual to get started.

A LOOK INTO THE GAMES OF THE FUTURE

PAK WATCH

COOL SPOT

VIRGIN GAMES

Who's the coolest video game character of all? Mega Man? Raphael? Roadrunner? Blanka? Bubsy? None of them can hold an ice cube to the ultimate cool—the chillin', thillin', pun-me-white-and-call-me-a-polar-bear cool of Spot from Virgin Games. When Cool Spot first arrived at Pak Watch, your Pak Cut flapped on his shades and jammed on what soon became clear would be one of the hottest titles of the year. With some of the best animation and sound seen and heard on any video game, Cool Spot delivers fun from the moment you plug it in. Even the title screen is cool! (Players can move the logo around, stretch it, shrink it, and twist it while Spot takes off his shades, wipes them impatiently and taps his foot.) As for the action, this Pak has variety, great control, three levels of difficulty and lots of fun. Spot's day on the beach is filled with hazards like hermit crabs, Walkman tape decks, sea urchins, and explosive mines as he seeks to fire his fellow spot buddies from 11 areas including the wharf, the inflatable pool, the laboratory, the model train and the playroom. There are bonus rounds between levels that are just as frantic as the regular game. Spot can run and jump like an Olympian, leap from rope to rope, bounce on bubbles, climb, cartwheel and shoot bubbles in eight directions. For platform game fans, Cool Spot hits the spot. Look for it in October!

THE LAWNMOWER MAN

STORM

In the Pak Watch fact is funnier than fiction category comes The Lawnmower Man created by Storm, a UK licensee developer that hopes to take the U.S. by storm. So far Storm has released titles like Pinball Dreams and Troddlers through other licensees. The Lawnmower Man game, like the movie, mixes intuitive intercomputer travel with more traditional action. The 3-D "virtual" mode (although not really virtual reality) gives players the true feeling of the movie. You can play either as Dr. Angelo or Carla in six traditional stages and 20 virtual areas in the Cybersphere that look remarkably like the graphics in the movie. Your mission, of course, is to shut down the mad genius Cybergabe who is trying to escape into the world-wide computer network. The Lawnmower Man should be available for Game Boy this December, from THQ.

WORLD HEROES

SUNSOFT

World Heroes joins the long list of arcade hit fighting games to make its way to the Super NES. The best fighters in the world and throughout history take part in the street fighting tournament. The excellent options include level of difficulty selection, match time and Controller setup. The play control contains a hard and weak kick or punch option from holding down buttons longer. One unique option is the Join In command, which lets a second player jump into a one-player match. As in Mortal Kombat, World Heroes has matches in which the losers pay the ultimate price. This Pak Puncher found the special moves to be pretty challenging, but they are necessary since the computerized opponents are merciless.

THE INCREDIBLE CRASH DUMMIES LYN

They're back for more abuse, and this time they're really doing it right. In Acclaim/LYN's early Crash Dummies games, either the Dummy theme or the action was missing. In this Super NES version, both elements are central to the game. The Junkman, with his T9000 construction, cleverly kidnaps Dr. Zub while the Dummies fall to pieces. After collecting themselves, they must head into a world of danger. Whenever a Dummy is hit by anything, he loses a part of his body. Luckily he is still mobile (he can hop and ultimately crawl along if necessary) and, if he can grab a screwdriver, he can repair himself. Look for the Dummies in a month or two.

ACTRAISER 2

ENIX

Recently your Pak Pro hit the road to visit Enix and got a first-hand look at ActRaiser 2 in development for the Super NES. The sequel to the 1991 hit shares the phenomenal sound and graphics, but it doesn't have the simulation aspect that was central to the original. As any ActRaiser veteran can tell you, the action was fast, furious and varied. In the 12 megabit ActRaiser 2, due for release this November, expect even more variety and more challenge—seven stages and 60 levels! Your warrior hero has wings this time, which adds a new dimension to your fighting. Level selection also stems from the original game. You fly above the world in a sort of temple flying saucer until you spot a town, cave or castle below, then you drop to earth and launch into action. During the fight, you'll be able to use limited magical attacks in addition to your sword.

INSPECTOR GADGET

HUDSON SOFT

Inspector Gadget may fumble and fumble, but he always brings in his man. When Hudson Soft brings the DIC comic cartoon detective to the Super NES this fall, that success rate will be up to you. The Inspector must pursue Dr. Claw through seven levels around the world to save his niece,

Penny. Levels include a haunted castle, the Pyramids, the Jungle and the City. Gadget has a dozen robotic add-on gadgets he can use during his investigations, from extendable limbs to a remarkable pop up hat that can contain all sorts of special tools. Your Pak Police felt the game did justice to the slapstick feel of the television show. For instance, if the Inspector takes a hit, he loses his overcoat and must continue on in his boxer shorts. Even better, the game was challenging and filled with surprises including hidden areas and lots of Power-Ups.

MARIO & WARIO

NINTENDO

Mario & Wario from Nintendo is a Super NES action strategy game that has its roots in Lemmings. The idea is that Mario must wear buckets and other makeshift helmets to protect himself from Wario, who buzzes and bombards the plumber. The problem is that Mario can't see where he's going. In this game, you play the part of Wanda, the flying sprite who steers Mario and creates blocks to allow him through the obstacle-ridden stages.

FLINTSTONES II

TAITO

Fred and Barney have a problem. They've lost their kids. Thus begins Taito's NES "Stone Alone" as the modern Stone Age dads search through Bedrock and beyond for Pebbles and Bam-Bam. This Pakolithic explorer found the graphics and game play to be well-suited to a younger audience, but Flintstones fans of any age will also find the game fun if not a little easy. The coolest part of the play is being able to switch between characters, each with special abilities like Barney swinging from overhead holds. That and an ever-changing cast of enemies kept this Pak Watcher saying, Yaba daba doo!

ULTIMA: RUNES OF VIRTUE II

FCL

Lord British needs the Avatar to rescue missing nobles in this Game Boy sequel to last year's excellent adventure title from FCL. This game contains all the adventure elements plus a well-designed mixture of animation scenes that tell the full tale of what's happening in other parts of the kingdom as you continue on your quest. Although there are always enemies to defeat in caves and castles, the real challenge of this game is figuring out all the puzzles. There are more puzzles than a Zelda game, and many of them are fiendishly clever. This Pak Watcher considers Runes II to be adventure gaming at its best. It's due later this year.

LEMMINGS

OCEAN

The mindless minions are back and in fine shape for the Game Boy. When Ocean's version of the action strategy classic arrived, your Pak Pundits groaned, thinking, "We'll never be able to see the little guys, much less control them." We were wrong! This Lemmings game may be easier to control and play than the NES version! Granted, you need fairly keen eyes and quick reflexes, but all the elements are clearly in place. Of course, the most important part of Lemmings is the challenge of the puzzles, which turns out to be great! This might be the perfect travel game due to its short stages and the fact that you get a simple password.

PAK WATCH UPDATE

For those of you who want to see a variation on the street fighting type of game, Legend from Sega delivers a taste of a more ancient type of combat, back when real men fought with swords and axes. This Pak Troll found the two-player scrolling fighter to be a refreshing change from martial arts contests. In Legend, you combat the evils of a misty, medieval world. You'll have magic, large characters, arcade graphics and endless battles for a noble cause when this Pak hits later this fall.

T2: The Arcade Game from Acclaim is still in development, but moving toward a late fall/early winter release according to our Pak Watch sources in Oyster Bay. The screen shot shown here reveals one of the reasons for the slow development rate—incredible graphics! It takes time to make something look this good. Other good-looking games from the Acclaimesters include Itchy & Scratchy's: Teed Off, which is a Game Boy battle between the Simpson's cartoon characters on a miniature golf course. Imagine trying to putt while coming under fire from an enraged mouse! If you can't picture that, maybe you'd better wait and play it yourself this December.

The least likely hero ever may be Lester, who unwillingly is thrust into an heroic role in DTMC's Lester The Unlikely. The ungainly Lester, an underachieving, slightly nerdy guy, begins his tropical island adventure with about as much grace as a giraffe on roller skates, but as he solves problems and moves ahead, he becomes more skillful and gains power over his body and foes. The animation in this Super NES game reminded this Pak Purveyor of Out of This World, which means very smooth and realistic, although a bit slow to control.

T2: THE ARCADE GAME

Arcus Odyssey from Renovation has been bouncing around NOA for several months, but soon it will be out in the stores and in your Super NES. Arcus is an overhead fighting adventure with an emphasis on the fighting. During eight quests through magical surroundings, one or two players can roam, explore, discover treasure, Power-Up weapons and magic, add characters to their fighting party and, don't forget, battle evil dragons, trolls and the like. With infinite costumes, passwords and four heroes to choose from, this game promises more depth than anything in its class. Renovation is also close to releasing an adventure RPG called The Journey Home, which your Pak Watch staff hopes to play as soon as it is humanly possible.

Many CES geeks have their eyes and Superscopes set on Battleclash II (the name is not yet finalized) from Nintendo. This 16 megabit sequel scores over the original in almost every category, especially in fun due to the cool two-player option in which you can control the enemy robot (with a regular controller) or the first-person SuperScope view.

Raya Systems, the producer of Captain Novolin (a unique game that helped diabetic kids learn how to take care of themselves) is finishing up a second game called Rex Ronan: Experimental Surgeon. In this health edutainment Pak for the Super NES, you control a miniaturized surgeon who is trying to repair damage inside the body of a person who has been a long time smoker. To make matters worse, the tobacco company has implanted hundreds of mini robots to insure that you fail. Rex Ronan is a true departure in the world of Super NES games, being both fun to play and informative on a subject of vital importance to everyone's health. You could say that Rex Ronan goes straight to the heart of the matter.

Other games moving along in their development cycles include THQ's The Ren & Stimpy Show: Veediots, which captures the look of the hit cartoon series, and Hyper V-Ball from McO'River, which is volleyball with some cool options.

In other news and moves, Konami announced that they will build a U.S. development center in Buffalo Grove, IL. The facility should open next spring and will be the focus for development of Konami/Ultra Super NES, NES, and Game Boy games for the U.S. market.

Street Fighter II will move off the small screens of video arcades and televisions to the big screen of Hollywood now that Capcom has signed up their heroic fighters with Edward R. Pressman Film Corp. No release date has yet been set for the live-action film, but Steven de Souza of Die Hard fame has joined the project as the writer/director.
